

JAMES WATSON AND ROBINSON SEEM WINNERS

Incomplete Returns Indicate That Two Senators Have Been Renominated by Indiana G. O. P.

DEMOCRATS NAME EVANS WOOLLEN

Six Candidates Seek Long Term and Convention Is Expected To Pick Nominee of Party.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—(AP)—United States Senator James E. Watson apparently has been returned a winner in the republican long-term senatorial primary on the face of incomplete unofficial returns tonight.

Senator Arthur R. Robinson was maintaining a slight majority over the combined vote of all his four opponents for the short-term nomination while the fight for the democratic long-term nomination appeared to be a nip and tuck race between William A. Cullip, of Vincennes, and John E. Frederick, of Kokomo.

Returns from 242 out of 3,551 precincts in the republican long-term race gave: Watson, 12,319; Adams, 4,621, while 241 precincts showed Robinson 10,877 and Arch G. Graham, of South Bend, his nearest opponent, 5,060.

Frederick in Lead.

Frederick had gained a slight advantage over Cullip in the democratic primary. The vote was Frederick 2,989; Cullip, 2,506. Four other entrants in this race appeared to have gained sufficient votes to force the final decision into the state convention.

Evans Woollen, Indianapolis banker, was without primary opposition for the short-term democratic nomination.

Congressional returns were meager. Noble Johnson, of the fifth district; Fred Purnell, of the ninth, and Andrew J. Hickory, of the twelfth, all republican incumbents, were running substantially ahead of their opponents on scant returns.

WATSON'S MAJORITY PLACED AT 100,000.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 4.—Incomplete returns at midnight showed Senator James E. Watson a winner over Charles Adams in today's republican primaries by an indicated plurality of approximately 100,000. Figures are meager, but in the precincts already reported Watson is running better than 2 to 1 against Adams.

In the race for the long-term term Senator Arthur R. Robinson is running well up with Watson in many sections. Robinson is leading his principal rival, A. G. Graham, of South Bend, by a comfortable margin. The other three candidates for the short term, Ward B. Hiner, of Frankfort; Oswald Ryan, of Anderson, and J. R. Norrell, of Indianapolis, are far behind in the incomplete returns.

On the democratic side, Evans Woollen, an Indianapolis banker, has no opposition for the short term. There are six candidates for the long term, and the incomplete returns denote that the nomination will have to be made by state convention.

No Vital Issue.

No vital issue was involved in the senatorial fight. Watson and Adams were both endorsed by the Anti-Saloon league. The world court did not enter for the simple reason that Senators Watson and Robinson, although both party regulars, voted against the world court.

The main issue on which the Adams folks beat the Watsons was "get rid of the boss." So, essentially, the struggle was whether one political crowd could crowd another bunch out. Senator Watson, who did not engage in a speaking campaign, was opposed by an imposing array of old-timers, among them Postmaster General Harry New, Everett Sanders, secretary to President Coolidge, former Governor James Goodrich and Will Hays.

The disintegration of the Ku Klux Klan vote was seen in the small poll in some counties where it used to be strongest.

Senate Approves Georgia Judicial District Measure

Bill Now Returns to House as Amended To Include Valdosta District.

THREE COURSES OPEN TO HOUSE

Lower House Can Accept Bill or Refer to Committee With or Without Instructions.

Washington, May 4.—(Special).—The senate passed the Georgia bill creating a new judicial district in Georgia Tuesday, under unanimous consent.

This completes initial action by congress, the house having passed the Larsen bill for a new district last week, and the next step is the adjustment of the differences in the two measures.

The difference lies in disposition of the Valdosta district, which is included in the Georgia bill in the proposed new middle district and in the Larsen measure in the southern district.

As the senate action was to substitute the George bill for the house bill, the measure now goes back to the house, where three courses are open. The house can accept the senate bill as amended, it can send the bill to conference with instructions, or send it to conference without instructions.

The house delegation is not of one mind as to what course should be followed. Some members are agreeable to accepting the disposition of the Valdosta division as in the senate bill, that is, placing it in the new middle district, while others want the Valdosta division in the southern district, and favor sending the bill to conference to adjust the difference.

The difference in the house delegation has existed since legislation was first drafted. Recent developments have indicated that it has not been erased.

There is a slightly different alignment of counties in the George bill from that provided by the Larsen measure, a few counties in the northern and southern districts are arranged in the house bill being shifted to allow inclusion of the Valdosta division in the new middle district.

The measure will go back to the house in a few days, by which time some agreement may be reached in the Georgia delegation there which will assure prompt final action, so that the president can sign the bill.

Love of Dead Man Valued At $60,000

Unique Decision Is Handed Down by Oklahoma Supreme Court.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 4.—(AP)—The affections of a dead man today were held by the state supreme court to be worth $60,000.

The court affirmed a judgment of the Tulsa county district court, awarding damages to Mrs. Ann Overton against Mrs. Ellen Overton, for the alienation of the affections of C. H. Overton, deceased. The original judgment was for $150,000, and the affirmation was contingent upon Mrs. Ann Overton remitting $90,000 of the judgment.

Ann was the first wife of Overton, who died in May, 1924, leaving an estate estimated at $268,960. She had been married to him for about 20 years when she alleges that Ellen Overton, nee Blackton, alienated his affections. Mrs. Overton got a divorce April 27, 1923, and Overton married Ellen Blackton in November that year. He died several months later, leaving his entire fortune to his second wife.

BRITAIN OFFERS AID IN BLOCKING RUM SMUGGLING

London Government Proposes Conference and America Decides To Send Delegation To England.

ENGLAND TIGHTENS LAW ENFORCEMENT

Statutes Are Now Being Applied With Unusual Severity Against Suspected Liquor Runners.

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Great Britain wants to do its part toward preventing the smuggling of liquor into the United States.

The London government so advised Secretary Kellogg in suggesting a conference to work out by informal means a measure for tightening the blockade.

The invitation to a conference, to be held shortly in London, has been accepted.

Tighter Restrictions.

Correspondence between Washington and London on the subject made public tonight discloses that Great Britain's aid originated with the idea of tighter restrictions with Great Britain's aid and that the conference invitation was extended "as proof of the desire of his majesty's government to give such assistance" to American prohibition agencies "as it is possible to give in the circumstances."

In accepting the invitation with "deep appreciation" Secretary Kellogg said the American delegation should arrive in London by the end of May. The American delegation will include Assistant Secretary Andrews, of the treasury; William R. Vallance, assistant to the collector of the state department; and Rear Admiral Billard, commander of the coast guard.

Laws Rigidly Enforced.

The correspondence reveals that British shipping laws are being rigidly enforced against vessels suspected of rum running, that registration of ships in the West Indies have been called upon to take special care to prevent transfer to the British flag of vessels intended for the smuggling trade and that the British want to remove liquor smugglers from the register of that country. "Specific instances where British shipping laws have been applied with unusual severity against suspected rum runners are cited as additional proof of the desire to cooperate with American prohibition authorities."

Rum running between the Bahama Islands and American shores is particularly mentioned. The British agreeing to permit expedited United States cutters to enter British territorial waters at Gun Cay and the islands contiguous thereto without strict compliance with the admiralty regulations governing visits of foreign armed vessels to British overseas ports.

This concession," Great Britain said, "is made on the condition that it be confined to acts to the Bahamas and it be limited in duration to a period of one year—at the end of which time his majesty's government will be prepared to entertain a request for the continuance of the arrangement."

ORATORY WINNERS WILL MEET FRIDAY

Twelve Young Georgians Enter State Finals To Determine Winner To Represent Georgia.

Chicago, May 4.—(AP)—The wandering minstrels of old, Professor Martin Sprengling, of the University of Chicago, will tour the land of the Arabian Nights this summer to hunt down some of the earliest bedtime stories known to man.

The expedition is probably the most unique ever planned, as its quarry is to be those priceless bits of humor, adventure and romance older than the "thousand and one nights" themselves. Instead of the Marco Polo sheep or the bones of ancient mastodons.

Furthermore, Professor Sprengling does not hope to prove the theory of evolution or that prehistoric women used lip stick. "The object of his search will be to discover and preserve for the world of letters those rare stories which are hidden in out-of-the-way corners of the earth."

Will Carry Camera.

The explorer's principal equipment will be a camera and a speaking knowledge of seven languages. With these he will tour about eight countries of the Near East.

"The main things I will be looking for," Professor Sprengling said, "are the fables of Kalila and Dimna."

NATIONAL P. T. A. WILL BE ASKED TO BACK DRYS

Chairman of Legislation Announces Resolution Opposing Modification of Prohibition.

BODY WILL ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

Most of Tuesday Consumed in Business Sessions—Reading of Reports Will Continue.

BY MAINER LEE TOLER (P. T. A. Editor of The Constitution.)

The National Parent-Teacher association, in convention here this week, will be asked to enroll itself among forces opposing modification of the prohibition law.

This became known Tuesday when Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, of Cambridge, Mass., chairman of legislation, announced that a resolution opposing all attempts to legalize sale of light wines and beer and calling on the public to aid President Coolidge to enforce the dry law strictly had been prepared for submission to the association.

The resolution—a lengthy one—discusses the present dry situation and the agitation for modification of the act. It urges establishment of local law enforcement associations throughout the country as a means of securing proper enforcement.

The National Parent-Teacher body spent a busy day Tuesday, holding business sessions during the morning, afternoon and night, with social features interspersed. Reading of reports on the association's work will continue today, with election of officers at the morning session as an outstanding feature. Indications Tuesday night were that Mrs. A. H. Reeves, present president, will be reelected, with nominations coming from the floor.

"Prohibition is, after all, behaving normally," the resolution of the legislative committee reads. "All great reforms have taken from one to two generations to enforce."

"This nation must either go forward to reasonable enforcement or make up its mind in retreating to carry along indefinitely the decreased health, character and efficiency that the legalized liquor traffic brings."

Hits Wine and Beer.

"We disapprove, as against the interests of child welfare, all attempts to readmit wine and beer or otherwise weaken enforcement, and we pledge ourselves to press forward year after year towards better enforcement of the law."

Mrs. Tilton also announced Tuesday that a nation-wide campaign was being launched by the Parent-Teacher associations to obtain a more effective enforcement of laws.

The goal of the campaign, as explained by Mrs. Tilton, is to have a survey made of the law enforcement machinery in every city and town in the United States in order to obtain the information necessary to achieving better law enforcement.

"We do not have a remedy yet for remedying the evils of inadequate law enforcement," Mrs. Tilton explained. "That is the reason why a national survey must be made. We want to find out what is wrong with the courts, learn the reasons why they are not functioning as they should, and then a remedy can be applied."

RIOTS MARK BRITISH STRIKE AS MILLIONS LEAVE POSTS; 20 HURT IN POLICE CHARGE

Seven Speakers Addressing Joint Convention Take Hopeful View of Conditions.

HIGH PRAISE GIVEN COOLIDGE, MELLON

President and Secretary of Treasury Are Called "Good Enough Democrats for Me."

Basic conditions in the United States are sound, although business should be marked by conservatism, according to a general survey of the situation in the hardware industry of the United States, submitted at the opening meeting of the joint annual convention of the Southern Hardware Jobbers' association and American Hardware Manufacturers' association at the Atlanta Biltmore Tuesday night.

Seven speakers, four manufacturers and three jobbers, gave their views upon present-day America; all took a hopeful view.

Assembling in the Biltmore ballroom, which was filled to capacity, the audience was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by Mark Lyons, of Mobile's president of the Hardware Jobbers' association. A quartet sang, following which the invocation was given by Dr. W. W. Menninger, pastor of All Saints' Episcopal church.

"America" was sung by the audience, following which Mayor Walter A. Sims made the city's guests feel that Atlanta extended them a cordial welcome.

Brief response was made by Mr. Lyons on behalf of the visitors, following which S. Horace Danton, president of the manufacturers' association, was introduced and expressed the hope that the joint deliberations of the two bodies would be fruitful in pointing the way to elimination of some of the trade problems which were proving most vexatious.

Four Sides Seen.

Four views of business conditions in the hardware industry of the nation were given by George F. Wright, of Worcester, Mass.; D. S. Brishin, of Columbus, Ohio; H. J. Strugnell, of Bridgeport, Conn.; and W. D. Biggers, Detroit, Mich.

While their phraseology differed in many respects and each dealt with separate phases of the situation, yet each was positive that the present situation presented no cause for alarm. If the business men of the nation make conservation their watchword and watch credits and merchandising practices closely, the next few months were said to promise continuation of present-day prosperity.

Colonel Peter O. Knight, of Tampa, devoted the greater part of his speech to the present-day situation in Florida, the favorable phases of the state's laws as affecting capital, and made prediction of the steady, consistent growth and prosperity of his home state. He accorded heavily the passage of the federal inheritance tax and state.

Reorganization of the state highway department; construction of a state system of paved highways by borrowing funds against the revenue from gasoline and motor vehicle taxes; an issue of state bonds for educational expansion and reformation of the state agricultural department is the platform.

Mr. Neill points out that the road construction issue, involving "whether the state shall continue under the present plan of construction or shall make certain the early securing of paved highways through the issuance of state bonds," will be determined by the vote of the people, but under either plan, says he favors full reorganization of the highway system and highway board.

Hits "Pay-as-you-go" Plan.

Designation for the present system of road building of "pay-as-you-go" is only half-truth, he says. "We have learned to our sorrow that under that plan we never 'pay' and never 'go'."

Pointing out the need for better school facilities, particularly for children of rural districts, and recalling that successive governors have urged greater educational advantages for the youth of the state, Mr. Neill advocates submission to the people of the issue of state bonds as state aid to the common school and university systems.

In regard to the agricultural department, Mr. Neill points out that the commissioner of agriculture is elected by popular vote but adds that some "needed reforms" in the department could be had through proper legislation.

As governor, he says, he would advocate placing of the oil inspection department with the staff of inspectors reduced to six, instead of the present "army" of more than 150 men," under the terms of the fables.

George Foster Peabody Adopts Social Worker

MRS. WAITE BECOMES HIS DAUGHTER

New York, May 4.—(AP)—George Foster Peabody, 74-year-old philanthropist, banker and patron of institutions of art and learning, authorized the announcement today that he has legally adopted as his daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Knapp, widow, social worker, said to be in her "late thirties."

Mrs. Waite is executive director of the Katharine Trask Alliance, a women's organization to which Mr. Peabody gave his Saratoga Springs, N. Y., home several years ago. This organization was founded in memory of Mrs. Peabody, who died in 1922, and who formerly had been Mrs. Katrina Trask, widow of Spencer Trask, banker.

Mrs. Waite is said to be a graduate of the University of Minnesota and before becoming a director of the Katharine Trask Alliance, she was with the Knox school at Cooperstown, N. Y. Mr. Peabody had no children. He married Mrs. Trask, widow of his friend and business associate, in 1921 when he was 69 years old.

Mr. Peabody was born in Columbus, Ga., and started business as a dry goods clerk in this city in 1865. Later he became a merchant, banker and director of many railroads and other enterprises, as well as trustee of various museums, institutions and societies devoted to public service.

He served as treasurer of the democratic national committee. He came to this city tonight to attend the funeral tomorrow of his friend, Oscar S. Straus.

Mrs. Waite has a brother, Theodore Knapp, of Washington, D. C.

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 4.—(AP)—A half million dollar "play house," where John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his five sons can enjoy many kinds of sports together under a single roof, is nearing completion on his estate at Pocantico Hills.

Inside the two-story building are bowling alleys, a basketball court, swimming pool, volleyball court, billiard room, card room, music room, lounge, a dark room for developing and projecting films, and a breakfast room and kitchen, as well as play rooms especially designed for the younger sons of the capitalists.

In a fenced area surrounding the building, a baseball diamond for playing laid out, and a tennis court, and croquet ground are already completed.

It is expected that the building, designed by Duncan Candier, of New York, will be completed early this fall.

Quiet Prevails, However, In Most of British Isles As People Meet Conditions.

LABOR CONFIDENT OF GAINING ENDS

Baldwin Steadfastly Declares That Labor, Not Government, Must Make First Move for Peace.

BY CHARLES M. McCANN, United News Staff Correspondent.

London, May 4.—The strike of organized British labor on behalf of the miners proves, at the end of the first 24 hours, to be widespread but not general.

As a result of the government's efforts to move food supplies from the docks, the first serious trouble broke out in the east end Tuesday night. Rioting, looting and burning of food-laden lorries were followed by police baton charges, in which 20 strikers were so badly beaten as to require hospital treatment.

Prepared for class conflict by warnings of Premier Baldwin, the nation calmly withstood the initial shock of the strike blow, and quietly concentrated upon fighting off the industrial paralysis threatened by the walkout.

Already the effects of government and volunteer resistance to the strike are slowly—although by no means decisively—making themselves felt.

As the strike passes into its second phase, organized labor, having struck its heaviest blow, is on the defensive, waiting to see what will happen. The British public is only just beginning to fight.

Labor Is Satisfied.

Labor leaders, in a continuous session at the headquarters in Leaky Eccleston square, declared themselves well satisfied with developments, and pointed out that their plans for increasing pressure, with growing paralysis of industry.

The Trades Union congress council issued the following statement: "We have heard from every corner of the country reports which surpass our expectations. The difficulty has been to keep some men working in the second line of defense, rather than to persuade those subject to the initial strike call to go out."

"All reports are to the effect that everybody is orderly, good tempered and anxious to preserve peace."

Firmly at grips, the British bulldog and the labor lion settled down to a class war of endurance.

While corps of swifty, dusty, leather-jacketed dispatch riders rode their spitting motorcycles in and out of Eccleston square throughout the day and night, bearing orders to strike committees in various parts of the country, the government spent the first day of the walkout in consolidating its forces.

Commons adjourned early in the afternoon, and the government party immediately held a "war council" with Premier Baldwin presiding. Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, minister for labor, delivered a propagandist speech, telling the conservative members of parliament that the British coal miners had never threatened agreed to accept the royal coal commission's report, as J. H. Thomas did in the commons Monday, and that they had refused to discuss with the owners.

Curbing of Criminals Depends Upon People, Says Report of Bankers

Gradual Decline in Bank Robberies Has Been No- ticeable Since 1919, Re- port Declares.

Pinehurst, N. C., May 4.—(AP)—Curbing of crime rests largely upon the will of the people to stamp it out, declares the report of the protective department of the American Bankers association submitted today to the executive council of the association in convention here.

Enactment of a law in all states providing heavy penalties for robberies in which life is endangered, was recommended in a resolution passed here today by the administrative committee, according to a report made by President Oscar Wells, Birmingham.

Action of the national bank section in protesting to the treasury department against the proposed reduction in size of United States paper currency, was reported by W. C. Wilkin, Charlotte, president of that section.

The question of legislative relief for the farmers did not reach the floor of council today and it is not expected to be reached, if reached at all, before Thursday, as Wednesday's session will be confined to the presentation of additional reports.

Reports made at today's session of the council dealt largely with affairs of the organization and how policies adopted at the last convention have been carried out during the past year.

Handily Reduced.

How five middle western states ### have reduced bank bandits during the past six months by the use of vigilance campaigns was told in a report of James M. Baum, manager of the protective department of the association. The report was made to the committee on bank crime prevention and investigation, which met today.

The report quotes figures to show how vigorous methods among the bankers have reduced crime. It commends the action of the American Law institute in undertaking to produce a moral code of statutes and court rules dealing with criminal procedure and opposes the unrestricted manufacture and sale of concealable firearms.

Establishment of a bureau of civil aeronautics in the United States department of commerce, with view to encouraging civil aviation in this country, is advocated in a report of the commerce and marine division.

NEW MOTION PICTURE THEATER ANNOUNCED

Indicative of the interest Atlantans are taking in community type of theaters is the announcement made Tuesday by Alpha Fowler, prominent theater man, that a new motion picture house will be opened at Peachtree and Tenth streets. Remodeling of the old building into a modern and up-to-date theater was begun Tuesday and the theater will be opened within two months, Mr. Fowler said.

Contracts have already been let for the remodeling of the building and Mr. Fowler stated that every convenience would be offered the theatergoer at the new house. It will be one of the finest suburban theaters in the south when completed.

Mr. Fowler is now manager of the Palace theater in Inman Park and the West End theater. He has been identified in theatrical circles here for many years and is one of Atlanta's most enterprising show-house promoters.

The new theater will be equipped with the latest devices in comfort to the public. An air-washing equipment will be installed and expensive heating and ventilating systems will be constructed. The Tenth street house will be constructed along the general lines of the West End theater and the Palace theater, but will be on a larger scale.

Mr. Fowler has gained much experience in entertaining the public in this type of theater and he plans to bring the highest in pictures to the Tenth street house. He will combine his interest of other theaters to give only high-class entertainment.

Opening of the new theater in this section of Atlanta will add greatly to the developing of Tenth street and Peachtree as a community center. Many developments have recently started there and the section promises to be one of the outstanding out of the downtown district.

Twenty-Eight More Pupils Go To Good Positions From The Southern Business College

Dull Times Are Unknown at the South—Enrolling For Training and Going Daily To Positions.

Twenty-eight more pupils of the Southern Shortland and Business University have just gone out to splendid positions, even though this is between what are considered the busy seasons with the merchants, but the Southern is so favorably and extensively known that dull times are only remembered in the remote past.

The literary schools are already beginning to close and their graduates are headed toward the Southern for Business Training.

This is distinctly the day of young business men and women, and the one who, aiming at great heights, puts off the starting until tomorrow, is likely to find his coveted place taken by someone who will start today.

The Southern has no branch schools, and warns the public to beware. It tried the plan in some small places, but the experiment proved a failure to the school and an injustice to the pupils. A few benches, chairs and one teacher in charge, can be called a Business College by appellation only. The Southern makes this announcement because it has received letters from several parts of the State, asking if it had any branch schools.

Attend an accredited school. The Southern is a member of the "Southern Accredited Business College Association."

The following pupils are those who have accepted positions with important firms recently:

Kelcie Howington, with Sterchi Furniture Co.; Miss Billie Fontaine, with Atlanta Life Insurance Co.; John Kadlec, with American Writing Machine Co.; Miss Frances White, with Dobbs Tire Co.; Miss Florine

As far back as 1919, it organized the General Motors Acceptance Corporation—a finance company through whose service more than 1,000,000 families have bought cars comfortably out of income.

On August 1 last, the price of this service, which had always been low, was still further reduced, and GMAC rates were made standard for all General Motors cars sold on time.

The automobile-buying public is now saving millions of dollars annually as a result of this reduction and the influence of General Motors leadership.

AtlantaAuxiliary Of Presbyterian Meets at Newnan

Newnan, Ga., May 4.—(Special).—The 19th annual meeting of the woman's auxiliary of the Atlanta Presbyterian church here Monday evening with Mrs. W. M. Everett, of Atlanta, presiding.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises led by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Hannah, followed by cordial greetings from Mrs. Mike Powell, who welcomed the women who attended the first Presbyterian meeting held 18 years ago in this church. ### CAPTAIN PHILLIPS' PLANE HOPS OFF ON AERIAL TOUR

Captain Charles T. Phillips, of the United States air service, attached to the office of the chief of the bureau of militia of the U. S. army, stationed at Washington, Tuesday "hopped off" in his De Havilland plane at Candler field, on the final leg of an aerial tour of inspection of the national guard air squadrons in the southeast.

Captain Phillips visited air squadrons at Nashville, Little Rock and Birmingham, and spent Sunday and Monday in Atlanta, visiting his mother, Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, who resides here. Captain Phillips expected to spend Tuesday night at Camp Bragg, N. C., and to arrive at the national capital today.

Captain Phillips is a native of Atlanta and, before entering the army at the time of the world war, was a newspaper reporter here. He was enthusiastic while here over the progress in developing the air service of the national guard, stating that there are now 15 national guard observation squadrons, all operating most satisfactorily.

MADISON AVENUE INJUNCTION DENIED BY JUDGE THOMAS

Application for injunction against the collection of assessments for the widening and extension of Madison avenue filed by B. F. Avery, Inc., was denied Tuesday by Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court and previous restraining order was revoked.

Hearing on the injunction began Monday before Judge Thomas and was completed Tuesday, when he denied the injunction. The order denying the injunction was superseded for 20 days to allow time for bill of exceptions to be filed.

It was charged in the injunction petition that the assessments were arbitrary and unreasonable and "without the authority of law." The matter has been pending for some time and a restraining order was issued recently preventing the collection of assessments for the work.

The Confidence That Atlanta Has in Allen's Was Expressed by the Throngs of Shoppers Here Yesterday!

A store that women would believe in... that's what Allen's has tried to be! That's the kind of store that Allen's is, for it was proved beyond a doubt yesterday, the opening day of our once-a-year sale... Allen's May-Time Wonder.

The sale was announced in a quiet manner. Not a price was quoted. The announcement simply stated that every department would spread forth values, the quality of which would measure up to Allen's high standards; the prices of which would be far below Allen's customary low day-by-day prices.

A simple announcement, but, because in all of its seventeen years of service in Atlanta, Allen's word has always been as good as its bond, Atlanta responded.

Throngs crowded every floor in this store all day yesterday... women who knew that because Allen's said there would be a Sale, there must be something indeed worth while to come for. And every woman who attended found her expectations not only fulfilled, but exceeded!

We're proud of Atlanta's Confidence, because we feel we've earned it. And we intend to keep that confidence by always having something better than we claim!

LETTERS REFUSED TO TRADE BOARD

Pittsburgh, May 4.—(AP)—Counsel for the Aluminum Company of America this afternoon flatly refused to permit George R. Gibbons, vice president, to present original copies of a number of letters subpoenaed by the federal trade commission in its investigation of allegations that the concern uses unfair methods of competition and is monopolistic.

Richard P. Whitley, commission counsel, notified the witness and the president's attorneys that he would go before a federal judge here to obtain a subpoena for the communications. He pointed out that refusal to honor such a paper would place the witness in contempt.

The letters, three in number, were an exchange between E. L. Chaney, of the Cleveland sales office of the Aluminum company, and E. K. Davis, of the Pittsburgh general sales headquarters.

BITTEN BY DOG, BOY GOES TO GRADY

James R. Tucker, three years old, of 133 Lovejoy street, was treated at Grady hospital for cuts and scratches about the head and body which he received when bitten by a dog at his home Tuesday afternoon.

The Tucker youth was allowed to return home after treatment and doctors advised the youth's parents to take him to the state capital for treatment against rabies. An examination will be made of the dog for rabies.

Texas Farmers To Demand Cut In Cotton Rates

Dallas, Texas, May 4.—(AP)—The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association plans to file suit within two weeks before the interstate commerce commission for a 2 per cent reduction in all cotton rates, C. K. Ballard, general counsel, announced today. The suit will be filed on behalf of the 300,000 cotton growers of the south in cooperative marketing associations, who do annual business in excess of $125,000,000, Mr. Ballard said.

Every class A railroad in the United States and Canada will be made a party to the suit, and every cotton rate for local interstate and export or coastwise shipment, will be alleged to be "excessive, unjust and unreasonable and in violation of section one of the I. C. C. act," Mr. Ballard said.

The impending suit, to be followed by similar complaints from cotton co-operators in nine other states of the south and southwest, follows several years study by organized cotton farmers of the freight rate burden now borne by them, Mr. Ballard explained.

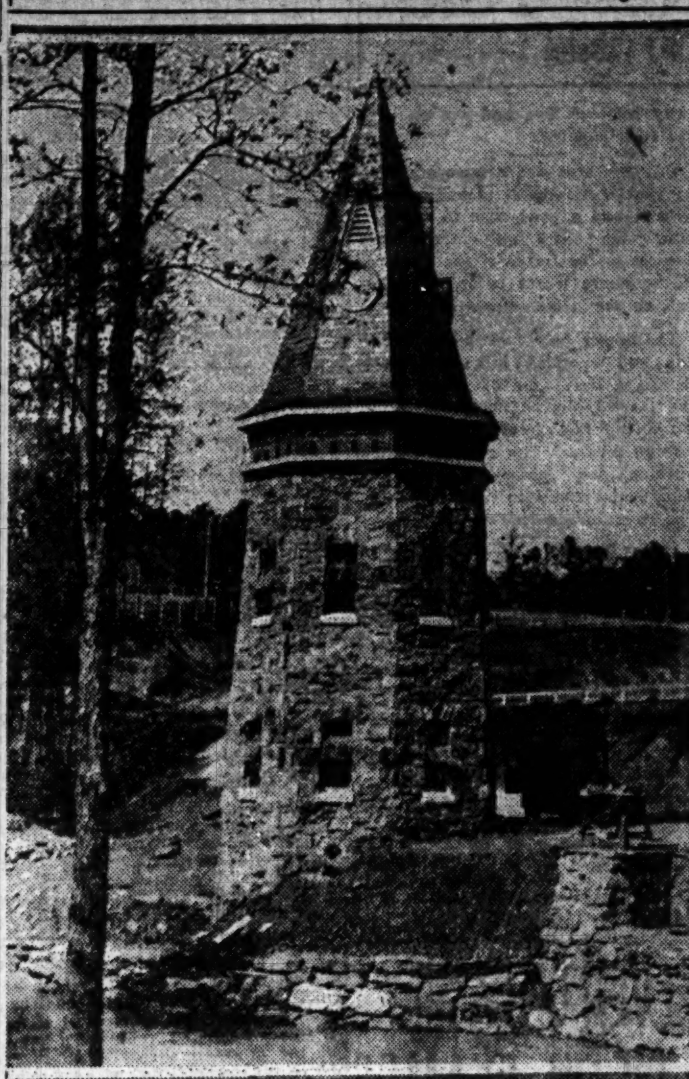

The litigation will doubtless be consolidated by the I. C. C. under the name of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, a central body representing each of the affiliated state organizations, the counsel said.

Aaron Sapire, chief counsel for most of these organizations and prime mover in their creation, will be one of the directing heads in the attack.

MACON GAS WAR MAY GIVE CITY MUCH LOWER RATE

Macon, Ga., May 4.—(AP)—As a result of Macon's gasoline war, in which the Wofford Oil company cut the price to 18 cents, being followed by the Stewart Oil company, will lead to the city demanding that the Standard Oil company furnish gasoline to the city of Macon for 14 cents, less two per cent, Mayor Wallace Miller told council tonight.
The city has a contract with the Standard Oil company to supply all city equipment with gasoline at four cents under the market price, less two per cent.
With two companies selling at 18 cents, the mayor says, that is the market price.
Other companies are selling gas at 27 cents.

Normandy Bells Strike the Hour On Estate Here

A striking example of rustic artistry is exemplified in the belfry so common in picturesque European countries, which has just been completed on the large estate of Walter Candler in Druid Hills.

Plans for this structure were drawn by Ivey & Crook, Atlanta architects. Workmen have installed a set of fine Westminster bells for chiming. The bells were manufactured in a foundry at Troy, N. Y., to duplicate the famous chiming at McGill university, Montreal, Canada.

The bells in the Candler tower will be operated by a unique mechanical device which will produce every 15 minutes, the famous Cambridge-Quarters from the melody written by Handel. Hour strokes will be sounded from the large bell of the set.

The Westminster peal comprises the first, fourth, fifth and sixth notes of the major scale, the fourth being the keynote. Some large buildings in New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia are equipped in similar fashion.

The Candler belfry, beside a lovely stream, is built of stone, typical of castles in Normandy and other sections of Europe.

English Answer Seen by House As 'Impertinent'

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—The house today approved a resolution describing as "irrelevant and impertinent," the reply of Federal Judge George W. English, of Eastern Illinois, to the impeachment charges filed against him.

The resolution accompanied the reply of the house managers to Judge English's statement before the senate yesterday in defense of his official actions. The reply also was approved. It reasserted the stand of the house as stated in the articles of impeachment, accusing the jurist of willful usurpation of authority over state officials and other high misdemeanors in office.

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated, was the course which Dr. R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil field near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, herbs and barks and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During many years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists all over the United States than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.—(adv.)

South's Mothers Will Be Honored Sunday, May 9

More than 15,000 handkerchiefs, the handiwork of refugee women in camps in Armenia, will be distributed among mothers of the southland next Sunday as gifts on mothers' day. The handkerchiefs are being distributed through the near east relief office, 1310 Atlanta Trust company building, and Tuesday night Director H. S. Meredith stated that of the 20,000 received a few days ago little less than 3,000 were on hand.

"We have a small number left," Mr. Meredith said, "and persons who would like to remember their mothers next Sunday with these delicate bits of linen, done by the care-worn, heart-broken and depressed refugee mothers of Armenia, should communicate with this office at once before the supply is out."

Clubs over the southern states, particularly women's clubs, have taken up a major portion of the south's allotment of gift handkerchiefs and are sponsoring the distribution. In Atlanta Mrs. Cleve Webb, prominent clubwoman, is in charge and scores of local women, men's and church clubs have obtained hundreds of handkerchiefs for mothers of members.

With thousands of mother-made handkerchiefs going to mothers of the southland and the customary wearing of carnations in honor of mothers, the significance of the day this year—Sunday, May 9—is expected to be greater than ever in Dixie.

JEWELRY TO PRESENT SPECIAL PROGRAM

Mothers' day will be observed at the Jewish temple, Pryor and Richardson streets, Friday night with impressive ceremonies conducted by Rabbi David Marx. A special feature will be an address by Harold Hirsch.

The observance is under auspices of the Young People's League of the temple, the Phi Epsilon Pi, the Tau Epsilon Phi, the Sigma Theta Pi, the Eta Rho, the Pi Tau Pi and the Junior Congregation of the temple. The committee in charge of the program is composed of Donald Oberdorfer, Mrs. Dorothy Hirsch, Charles Liebman, Theodore Waxelbaum, Samuel Proger, Sidney Smith, and Benjamin Regenstein.

Every Atlantian knows that Real Estate Profits / are Surest on the North Side

THE chronicle of Atlanta's real estate history contains irrefutable evidence that the path of development has always been Northward.

As Atlanta's population leaps on toward the half million mark—the demand for home sites on the north side increases daily. For in this section of the city lies Atlanta's magnificent residential section—the home of the city's aristocracy.

And in the heart of this preferred territory—surrounded by many of Atlanta's most beautiful estates—lies Garden Hills—the last available home site development through from Peachtree Road to Piedmont Avenue.

Authentic statistics demonstrate that more property has been turned over at a profit, within a specified period, on the North side than in any other section of Atlanta. And invariably these figures show that the pioneer investors—men and women who were keen enough to foresee the inevitable trend of homes to the north—were rewarded by the largest profits.

Some idea of the substantial gains made through the re-sale of North side property is shown by the following sales record of a single block in Ansley Park:

- A corner lot, originally sold for $9,500 in 1911, was purchased in 1913 for $14,000 as the site of a handsome home.
- The next lot, sold originally in 1908 for $2,325 was resold in 1920 for $6,750, and again in 1921 for $8,500.
- Another lot sold in 1909 for $2,800, in 1911 for $3,250 and in 1917 for $13,500. Farther along, on Andrews Drive, just across the street from Garden Hills, where lots sold for $6,000 and $6,700 in 1921 and 1922, recent sales of adjoining lots have been at from $15,000 to $21,500.
- A 100-foot lot in Peachtree Heights on Peachtree Road was bought in 1924 for $8,000. Since then, this lot has changed hands twice, at profits of $4,500 and $1,500—both within a year.

Early property buying on the North side might have been termed as speculation—but today the element of risk is entirely absent. The purchase of property within Atlanta's Profit Line is now essentially an investment, and an ever increasing rise in value is a certainty.

An analysis of all these pertinent facts must justify—without a shadow of doubt—the opinion of real estate experts, that Garden Hills offers the best investment in Atlanta today.

- First: There is Garden Hills location—squarely centered in the midst of Atlanta's profitable real estate activity; five minutes from Peachtree Station, just north of fashionable Andrews Drive, and through from Peachtree Road to Piedmont Avenue—the two main thoroughfares north.
- Second: Its physical features—its unrivaled scenic charm, its undulating topography, and the general plan of arrangement which is being universally acclaimed as ideal.
- Third: There is its guaranteed program of improvements, most of which are already nearing completion—a program backed by a number of Atlanta's most prominent financial and business leaders.
- Fourth: There is the important matter of price. And here Garden Hills offers its greatest attraction—for the developers have placed prices on these home sites that permit the person of moderate means to live in a section which will shortly be available only to the wealthy.

No site in Garden Hills is less than 60 feet in width; all of them have ample depth. And there are scores of them at pre-development figures from $1500 to $2500. These are high, wooded lots—on wide, paved boulevards.

Consider all these factors, and then plan to select your home site at once, for while prices in Garden Hills are now at pre-development levels—the rapid completion of improvements makes a substantial rise in price imminent.

So that you can have first hand information on prices and other details, we urge your calling at our downtown office, 197 Peachtree Street, where a courteous representative will be assigned to take you to the property.

VISIT THE MODEL HOME IN GARDEN HILLS

A completely furnished model home—and one that features many innovations—is open for your inspection daily, from one o'clock in the afternoon until nine in the evening. It is No. 160 Rumson Road and has been decorated throughout by the Haverly Furniture Co. The hostess, Mrs. Harvey Hill, will accompany you on your trip through this delightful home. After you have enjoyed half an hour at the Model Home, the children will want to romp about in Sunny Brook Park—now being beautified—where they may play on the swings, wade in the pools, slide on the coasters, and generally enjoy themselves.

Beautiful Garden Hills

IN THE HEART OF ATLANTA'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION

STUDY the map above. It will help you to visualize the extent of Garden Hills. Remember that when you enter from Peachtree Road, you are in one of the three sections only, and really the smallest part of this great development.

Drive on further around Rumson Road, lined with attractive residences, and then into the Country Club section—and on into the Brentwood section—for here a surprise awaits you! In these two sections where improvements are going ahead rapidly, you will fairly gasp with astonishment at the natural beauty all about you. Never before have you seen a natural setting more adaptable for the building of distinctive homes.

As you enter the Country Club section notice the site of Sunny Brook Park on the left. Here is a fairland for Garden Hills children—where youth may disport itself with never a dull moment. Slides, swings, seesaws, a miniature zoo, sand-piles, a gay little brook, wading pools.

And directly opposite will be a Crystal Lake—deep enough for boating—fed by clear streams—stocked with game fish.

Adjoining the lake will be the Swimming Pool—fresh clean water daily, diving boards—a raft.

Garden Hills is to have a Country Club all its own, where the social life of the community will center. The Club shall lack no detail to make it complete. Plenty of room for dancing—wide, cool porches, tennis courts, bridle paths winding nearby—a riding track.

All the beautification features of Garden Hills will be in the hands of an internationally famous landscape engineer, and promise to surpass in magnificence all former landscape developments undertaken in the South.

The Directorate of the Garden Hills Corporation is formed of men who stand foremost in the ranks of Atlanta's business and financial leaders, who are permanently identified with the development of the property. They are:

FIRST RIOTS OCCUR IN BRITISH STRIKE

an offer which involved a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

"You who come from the industrial regions, go home and tell your constituents that," said the prime minister when Steel-Maitland finished speaking.

Labor Must Act.

It was made clear Tuesday night that organized labor must take any step which now can be made towards peace.

Meanwhile, the country began to show evidence of recovery from the initial blow. In a couple of towns, street cars started running again. Railways throughout the country began to send out passenger trains sporadically, and these trains cautiously felt their way along.

In the late afternoon, some 10 hours after the general strike order had summoned all organized workers on all lines of transportation from their posts, some Londoners were able to ride to their homes on a virtually normal—albeit somewhat squashed—suburban electric service.

The railways promised better service Wednesday. Success in this direction might possibly lead to labor's finding a "formula" with which to approach the government.

Labor's other response to increased railway service, which must be crippled nearly 100 per cent if labor is to win, may be to call out the reserves.

Power Plants Run.

These are the gas, electrical and power workers who are supplying gas and electricity for homes and hospitals, as well as power for factories.

Some of these workers already have given an indication of what they really would be to an appeal by the Trades Union congress for support of the strike. A message was sent to Premier Baldwin declaring that the light and power men intended to remain at work. If not, in an emergency, naval engineers could take the places of these workers and provide some sort of service.

There was no doubt, however, of the effectiveness of labor's first appeal to the nation. The railways, the ships and the newspapers—the three groups included in the first general strike call.

Transport, which comprises the sinews of a civilized country just as the telegraph and telephone comprise its nerves, was rendered catatonic by the strike.

Buses, street cars and trains were idle. Railway and subway stations were locked. Londoners and suburbanites, as well as those who lived in the provinces, started to pick up their feet. As they proceeded, some picked up "private" buses, some obtained lifts in private automobiles, some "hooked" onto trucks, banana carts, or grocery wagons. Others kept on walking—some 10 and 12 miles from home to office.

Maintain Gay Spirits.

Pedestrians maintained their gay spirits in the traffic jams. At each street corner was to be seen the old man, woman, boy or girl peering into the engine of some decrepit automobile which had broken down with one last part on its first trip since it was relegated to a corner of the garage years ago.

Throughout the day traffic noises were punctuated with sharp explosions of tires. London's temper was given an excellent test and the police and Londoners did credit to them. Police instead of cursing broken-down cars while traffic was tied up, laughed and said sarcastically, "take your little pet in your pocket and get out of this."

Ordinarily reserved commuters met each other for the first time as they proceeded to hike to work, chatting and exchanging news of the strike. Their mutual experiences in the great war. High heels girls walked gamely mile after mile on their way to offices in the city. In some cases, employees bought refreshments to stock up for their homeward journeys on foot.

Traffic Jam Lessons.

In the afternoon the traffic jam was less intense, insofar as the situation was affected by the fact that vehicles and pedestrians radiated in spokes of a hundred arteries, whereas in the morning all traffic had converged. By the time, however, the average Londoner had begun to feel the effect of the strike and many a tired pedestrian asked with a scowl why the public must be inconvenienced, tired and dusty they wended their way home in the evening, some of them able to get a ride on a strike-breaking bus or on a pony cart. A few loitered in the parks which are now beautiful with the colors of spring flowers—learning the beauties of London which they had ignored for years.

In the morning and evening there were rushes to the subways, but few were optimistic enough to go to the railway stations. Those who did go found the stations in some cases unlocked, and clerks inside selling tickets for a few points. Announcements on the boards told of prospective departures of one or two trains. Then, when the sinews of England's traffic began to move, a train puffed slowly into the station and in the crush which followed some were crowded out and forced to walk limpingly away. For there were always a few more passengers than cubic feet of space in the coaches.

First Serious Disorders.

It is not extraordinary that the first serious disorder broke out in the toughest district of the East End, as a result of a combination of anger over strike-breaking and freely flowing beer at the numerous "pubs." The 20 casualties sustained do not include any of the police engaged.

A disorder in the India road is not unusual in this district, where police even in normal times are forced to travel in pairs.

By midnight, the police were firmly in control. Rioters who had looted and burned lorries and pushed a Rolls Royce into a convenient canal were being shuttled to their homes.

London, accustomed to trouble in the East End, can concentrate 2,000 stalwart "bobbies" at any point within a couple of hours.

Meanwhile scenes of quite another sort took place at sedate Emsland Eccleston Square, behind the famous old Victoria station. Here labor's general headquarters is located and at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, the first battalion of labor dispatch riders filled the square, honking the horns of their motorcycles and awaiting sealed orders which they have undertaken to spread throughout the country before sunrise.

At Labor Headquarters.

One expensive car, supplied by a wealthy labor sympathizer, also was on duty, as well as a miscellaneous collection of roadsters and touring cars. Several hundred youths with bicycles also were on hand.

A group of British police politely inspected the front and rear lights of the collective machines.

Within labor headquarters, lights blazed in every room, indicating all the subcommittees were at work, summoning labor's utmost strength to the impending conflict.

Every 20 minutes or so the great brass-knocker door opened and a slim English girl would appear and call out in a soft voice:

"Comrades, who is going on the Bath (or Bristol) road?"

Motors honked eager replies, and the youths with bicycles crowded forward, shouting:

"I'm going, Miss. Let me go."

There would be excited consultations over who should carry the dispatch in question, until the slim girl would pop back into the great, buzzing house to get some more.

All night long, these sealed envelopes went out to the followers of the trades union congress.

Appeal for Volunteers.

An appeal for volunteers broadcast by subway companies during the afternoon brought such a tremendous response from civilians in all parts of London that an official statement was issued by the company during the evening that "enrollment of volunteers continues and it is likely that services will be resumed on all lines very shortly."

The United News correspondent called on A. J. Cook, miners' representative, during the afternoon for a statement. Cook promised one of the subject of "War Until Victory Has Been Achieved by the Workers." When the correspondent called for the statement, he found an apology from Cook, who had been called suddenly to trades union headquarters. When he was found there he handed out a paper saying, "here's your statement."

A colleague approached Cook and after a whispered conference, the miners' leader grabbed the statement again, tore it into pieces and put the pieces in his pocket.

"I am sorry," said Cook, "but I can't say a word now."

Overtures Are Seen.

He returned to a joint meeting of the trades union council and the miners and railwaymen's special committee. Shortly afterward another United

No Disruption On Liner Service Seen by Officials

New York, May 4.—(P)—Shipping officials here announced a "business as usual" program today.

The general strike in England, it was pointed out, would not be a factor in the shipping service between England and America, but no immediate crippling of transatlantic commerce is expected, they said.

Up to the present no changes have been made in sailing dates of vessels plying between this and English ports, no passenger reservations have been cancelled and none of the 8,000 British seamen in the port of New York have deserted their ships.

It was stated at the Cunard docks here early tonight that the Aquitania, with a crew of 378, would sail at 1 p. m. tomorrow as scheduled. Members of the crew said they would join the strikers on arrival at Southampton.

No difficulty is expected in handling the Leviathan, which left here Saturday night when it docks at Southampton Thursday, according to a cable message received at the United States line from its London agent.

News correspondent called a labor member of the commons for comment. This man is not involved in the strike and his name is withheld on his request.

"The trades unions can't afford to wait another 24 hours without making overtures to the government," said this leader.

"The situation is serious."

But simultaneously, trades union headquarters denied that any attempt at overtures to the government had been offered. One report said that such overtures had been made and had been refused when government leaders refused to confer with labor leaders.

The strike is now entering the phase where both sides are making overtures to the government in an effort to break up the tie-ups in various lines of industry. They can find recruits among patriotic citizens who are already feeling the pinch of hunger. South Wales, Hull and Clydeside in Scotland are the spots where disorders are most likely to occur.

Even including sporadic disorders of Tuesday the total casualties during the day probably were less than those occurring on an ordinary Saturday night.

Police see a menace each day the strike continues, however.

Recruits continue to pour in for all manner of volunteer services. The army is gaining many recruits and the London station for new applicants has been working at full capacity. Some are joining the army because of their weariness over the long economic struggle. While the government is withholding figures it is known that heavy detachments of men have been sent to many of the centers where outbreaks are feared.

FIRST SERIOUS DISORDERS OF STRIKE REPORTED.

BY A. L. BRADFORD.

London, May 4.—(10:40 p. m.)—The first serious disorders of the British general strike flared up in the East India dock district Tuesday night, culminating in a series of police baton charges upon strikers, a score of whom were badly beaten and taken to hospital.

The rioting started when gangs of strikers and sympathizers began attacking government food lorries in the afternoon, overturning the vehicles and putting them out of commission.

Sporadic fighting led to baton charges, which temporarily ended the trouble, but angry crowds of men and women lined the East India Docks road during the evening.

The fighting broke out again as the strikers resumed their attacks on the lorries, overturning one and setting it on fire.

Overthrow Lorries.

In the afternoon there had been intermittent fights without serious damage to the lorries, the strikers contenting themselves with overthrowing an occasional lorry.

The first casualties occurred when the police, after futile warnings to the mob to disperse, began a series of charges, cracking heads right and left.

All those who fell with wounds from the police batons were taken to Poplar hospital.

The police charges increased the anger of the strikers to a dangerous pitch, and police reserves were rushed to the East India docks section from other parts of the city.

As it might get beyond control and began looting the lorries, mounted police rode up and charged the rioters. Finally the latter lost heart and ran to disperse. Meanwhile fire engines were changing down the East India Docks road in response to several alarms.

In the Poplar district of the east end, not far away, a big car appeared in the streets. Strikers surrounded the luxurious vehicle, forced the driver to dismount, and rolled the limousine through the streets, finally pushing it into a nearby canal.

The Bow district adjoining was more orderly, but plain-clothesmen patrolled the streets all evening, arresting all who talked too loudly—a total of eight prisoners being taken on this charge.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 4.—Unwilling to fly north to the arctic coast for a trip out over the sea of ice until the radio generator on the plane is functioning properly, Captain George H. Wilkins, commander of the Detroit Arctic Expedition, decided to postpone today to postpone his hop-off for Point Barrow. If the generator is operating satisfactorily this evening the Arctic Expedition is scheduled to leave tomorrow morning.

Weather conditions for the flight were excellent locally this morning, but as the day wore on a haze developed to the northward the indicated thick weather in the vicinity of the Endicott mountains.

British Gazette

Now Only Paper Printed in London

London, May 4.—The presses in the plant of the Morning Post started humming shortly before midnight, running off the first edition of the government newspaper, "The British Gazette," which is being published there.

The busy corner of the Strand upon which the building faces was surrounded by a strong cordon of uniformed police, who refused admission to anyone who could not present full credentials.

Crowds of angry strikers stood about, threatening to follow and overturn the lorries which were lined up to carry the new—and only—morning paper of London to the millions who had been without written word of the strike for 24 hours.

A strong guard was at hand for each automobile as the newspapers were brought from the Morning Post presses.

The "British Gazette," normally a study periodical of government facts and figures, will be published daily and distributed throughout the country in the morning, through the civil commissioners, for each district. It will sell for two pence.

Paradoxically enough, one provincial newspaper thrives on the strike. The Nottingham Advertiser now publishes a daily instead of a weekly edition.

At the offices of the Sheffield Daily Telegraph, the printers reported for duty and conferred with the publishers, who promised the men that their jobs would be protected even if the strike were successful. Whereupon the printers went to work and the paper is publishing normally.

Some others, including The Scotsman at Edinburgh, where the entire force is non-union, also were able to appear.

Fair editions of the New York Herald and the Chicago Tribune will be sent to London by airplane within the next day or two, according to a message received here from those newspapers Tuesday.

FLAMES SWEEP VALUABLE TIMBER IN NORTH CAROLINA

Asheville, N. C., May 4.—(P)—Flames which have swept over 15,000 acres of valuable timber land during the last few days were raging tonight with unabated fury on the sides of Grandfather mountain in the Boone area of the Pisgah National forest, according to word reaching here.

Other Points Than Steps LOOKS, STYLE, PERSONALITY COUNT To Charleston, You Know

Come on girls, there's plenty of room in The Constitution-Public big "Charleston beauty tournament" to be staged all next week at the Howard theater. You've got just as much chance as any one because appearance and personality will count just as much with judges as dancing ability.

In other words, you don't have to be such a wonderful dancer if you've got the looks and style and there are plenty of girls in Atlanta between the ages of 16 and 25 who have both looks and style.

First prize is a 12 weeks' engagement at $75 a week in John Murray Anderson's production of "Charleston," which will be presented in 12 cities in which Public theaters are located. If for any reason this engagement cannot be accepted, then there is a prize of $100 in gold available; another prize of $50 in gold and a prize of a three months' pass to the Howard theater. There are a lot of good-looking girls in Atlanta who can dance the "Charleston" who could use that $100 cash prize or that $50 in solid gold coin right out of the bank. It's easy to enter and it is going to be a case of good luck deciding the winner, as all the girls who get into the contest have a chance to win the capital prizes.

The girl who wins the 12 weeks' engagement and can go to New York and the other cities to fill it, will have a wonderful opportunity of taking up a stage career under the most favorable conditions, will enjoy a 12 weeks' tour of the leading cities of the country, will draw down $75 a week while on the trip and by the time she gets back to Atlanta to serve as hostess to the "Charleston" production during the week of September 5 at the Howard theater, she ought to have at least $500 in well-earned money saved up.

Eleven other cities in which Public theaters are located will be scenes of similar contests and the 12 girls from the 12 cities will make this big tour.

So take a chance, if you feel like it—step into the Howard theater office, enroll your name and get in the game. It is going to be loads of fun, anyway. Elimination contests will take place twice daily at the Howard theater and finals will be held Saturday night, May 15.

POWER COMPANY PLANS FOR NEW SUB-STATION

A permit was issued Tuesday to the Georgia Railway and Power company to construct a new power substation at 140 Edgewood avenue at a cost of $70,000. The new building will be two stories high and will be of brick and concrete. Construction will begin immediately. Several weeks ago the company began work on a similar station on Spring street.

TWO SMALL FIRES DO LIGHT DAMAGE

An awning on the secretary of state's office at the state capitol was burned early Tuesday morning, and further loss was prevented by quick work of firemen.

A small blaze was discovered later at the plant of H. L. Schlesinger, 76 Madison avenue, but the damage was of no consequence.

VICTIM OF CRASH REPORTED BETTER

Although little Ralph Gwin, aged 5, of 20 Kelly street, who was struck down by a street car Monday afternoon, is suffering from concussion of the brain, physicians at Grady hospital believe he will recover.

The boy was struck at Forsyth and Marietta streets by a car operated by Motorman P. D. Rawlins, of 149 Glenwood avenue. Rawlins was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

MASONS WILL HEAR JUDGE E. C. KONTZ

Judge E. C. Kontz will be speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Masonic club at 12:30 o'clock today at Peacock cafe. A musical program will be offered by Rich's Glee club orchestra, featuring Mrs. Charles P. Copeland and Mrs. Louise Glover, soloists, and Miss Daisy Hayden, pianist.

BUILDERS HEAR CANDLER ON BONDS

William Candler, chairman of Atlanta's $8,000,000 bond issue committee, was principal speaker at the annual banquet and election of officers of the Atlanta Builders' exchange held Tuesday night at the Henry Grady hotel.

William Wilson, president of the exchange, again was elected president, with P. A. Pittman again named first vice president. Ralph Walker was elected second vice president to take the place of Sam Hodges, who was elected treasurer. F. M. Noland was re-elected treasurer.

Directors elected to serve for the ensuing year are: W. H. George, J. R. Patillo, W. W. Griffin, M. E. Ford and O. A. Barge.

More than 200 members of the exchange attended the banquet and election, one of the best annual meetings ever held. An elaborate entertainment program featured the J. M. High company quartet, Harry Stowe in vocal numbers and a dancing program by Miss Martha Mobley, Miss Janet Kelly and Alford Kelly.

B. Mifflin Hood, one of the charter members of the Builders' exchange, gave a brief introductory talk, introducing Mr. Candler as the principal speaker of the night.

In his address, Mr. Candler, a native of Atlanta, reviewed the history of the city from its infancy. He showed how the city has continued to prosper since the days of the '60s when it was a smoldering mass of ruins, largely through the courageously optimistic vision of its citizens. He spoke briefly of the building program of Atlanta during the past few years and of the prospects for the immediate future, closing his talk with a few words relative to the recent bond issue. Mr. Candler stated that it was the purpose of the bond committee to see to it that Atlanta's citizens will get value received for the bond money and that no unnecessary expenditures will be made. "It is the purpose of the bond committee to give the citizens just what they voted for," Mr. Candler declared.

NATIONAL OFFICER OF WOODMEN CIRCLE FAVORS MOVE HERE

That Woodmen of the World officials who recently announced that the fraternal headquarters probably would be moved from Omaha, Neb., in the near future, have their eyes upon the south and Atlanta, was the statement made to The Constitution Tuesday by John C. Quinn, prominent Atlanta member of the organization, following a conference with Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley, national secretary of the Woodmen Circle society.

Mrs. Alexander is a guest of Mrs. Clara R. Cassidy, state manager of Woodmen circles and national officer, who lives at 33 Albion avenue. Mr. Quinn said Mrs. Talley agreed that Atlanta was being considered as a logical point for the headquarters and its environs for location of the headquarters and for a home for aged members and orphans.

The supreme society has assets of over $18,000,000 and meets an annual pay roll of $175,000. It boasts 3,300 lodges with a membership of over 139,000, he said. Its proposed bill is over $13,000 per year and deposits and clearings for 1925 were over $13,000,000.

$228,000 BONDS SOLD AT PREMIUM

Bonds of the state of Georgia, amounting to $228,000, were sold Tuesday at the state capitol. The issue is one of the regular state issues to replace other bonds now falling due and does not increase the bonded debt of the state.

The sale Tuesday was the best made in many years, Captain W. J. Speer, state treasurer, stated.

"It reflects the splendid credit of the state," asserted Captain Speer, "and you may say for me that it is the best bond sale made by Georgia in many years."

Bonds are 20-year bonds and bear an interest rate of 4 1/4 per cent and the price paid by the successful bidder was at premium over face value of $2,638.48. There were about 12 bidders, the Hibernia Securities Company, Inc., with Atlanta offices at 57 North Forsyth street, being the successful one.

HUNTER EMPHASIZES DUTIES OF CITIZENS

Joel Hunter, president of the City club, was principal speaker Tuesday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Lions club held at the Ansley hotel. Mr. Hunter talked about the responsibility of citizenship and stressed the need of all citizens registering and voting in elections.

Music was furnished by Miss Katherine Kay, violinist, and Miss Mamie Calloway, pianist.

AMERICAN MINERS TO TAKE NO PART IN BRITISH STRIKE

Mr. Kennedy said that until information is received regarding the British strike, no statement or action would be forthcoming from the United Mines Workers.

Commutation Plea For Convicted Negro To Be Heard Friday

The state prison commission will hear a petition Friday for commutation of the death sentence imposed on Rufus "Mule" Hicks, Muscogee county negro convict, convicted of killing a prison guard in an attempt to escape.

Hicks had served 12 years of a 20-year sentence imposed on him for stealing a horse, and in an attempt to escape the guard was killed. Several prominent Muscogee county citizens are working for commutation on the ground that the original sentence given the negro was illegal and excessive.

Red-Haired Manicure Reveals Details of Love Affairs

CONFESSES INTRIGUES WITH THREE MEN

(Copyright, 1936, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, Ill., May 4.—"Confessions of a Red-Headed Manicure" might have been the title given to the testimony of pretty June Simons, 22, who was the central figure in an ultra-modern court drama.

The witness told of her love affairs with three men incident al to evidence offered in an attempt to keep possession of a one-half interest in a beauty shop. She said one-half of the shop had been given her by Lowell W. Smith. Smith now seeks control of the shop, she said, and she asked the court to protect her interests.

With no trace of embarrassment, the witness admitted that the shop was given to her as a love gift by Smith. They lived in a flat together, she said, and she had posed as Smith's wife.

Listeners in the courtroom gasped, but Mrs. Alta M. Smith, who married Smith recently, smiled at the testimony and patted her husband's hand. "Business became bad last January," the witness said. "I was afraid of Mr. Smith's anger. He told me to get out and I did."

Later, she said, Mrs. Smith called her up and suggested a conference. "She called me a gold-digger," the girl told the judge. "She threatened to put me in jail for my affair with her husband. I was so frightened that I signed a paper giving all my rights in the shop to her."

On cross-examination the manicure said she had been married recently. She admitted that this marriage was not legal because she had not as yet obtained a divorce from a former husband.

"I was so nervous about this matter," she said, "that I couldn't wait for the divorce. We got married right away."

At this juncture Judge Ryner halted proceedings to suggest that attorneys and principals get together, agree to sell the shop, and that then a decision might be made concerning division of the proceeds.

Rotarians Told Of Real Spirit Of Organization

While Rotary is essentially a system of civic clubs the spirit of Rotary is the "essence of true religion coupled with the very essence of good common sense," Robert Parker, new president of the Atlanta Rotary club, declared Tuesday at the regular luncheon at the Capital City club in his inaugural address.

Mr. Parker gave a brief outline of the lines of work of the Rotary club this year and named chairmen of principal committees for the year. He urged a better knowledge of "the real Rotary spirit," and asked cooperation of members during his administration.

Following his talk Kendall Weisiger, chairman of the 1936 program committee, made a short talk in which he outlined the methods of handling program for the year. One of the features will be a series of talks on the spread and workings of International Rotary, he said. Eleven sub-chairmen for the year were named.

Members of the Emory quartet gave a program of songs. Members of the quartet are William E. Fox, Jack Cleveland, Joe Johnson and George Baker. Baker gave two solos.

The list of committee chairmen for 1936 as given out by Mr. Parker are: Business methods, Wilmer L. Moore; Christmas baskets, P. D. Yates; cog committee, W. C. Royer; educational, T. C. Law; fellowship, W. C. Mansfield; finance, Henry Williams; music, W. B. Gibson; program, Kendall Weisiger; public affairs, Allen Schoen, and general boys' work, Howard See, chairman, and W. F. Milburn, vice chairman.

Chairmen of various committees on boys' work are: Big brother, H. D. Oliver; boy in church, Bulow Campbell; boys' week, George S. Bland; city high schools, C. T. Pottinger; county schools, Mark C. Pope; employed boys, Leroy Rogers; grammar schools, David Thompson; juvenile courts, Fred Hoyt; parks and playgrounds, Rodney Morrison; Rotarians' sons, Howard Candler, and stranger boys, Keith Phillips.

Harrington, Sr., manufacturer's representative and well known in national republican circles, stopped over at Biltmore hotel for a few hours Tuesday for a conference with Leslie Straton, prominent wholesale grocer of Memphis, Tenn., who is in the city for a short visit. Mr. Harrington was en route from Birmingham to New York, and said Atlanta was the "old reliable, growing, prosperous city and on the road to greater things."

OGLETHORPE PLAYERS' CASTS ARE SELECTED

Announcement of casts which will appear in the three one-act plays to be presented by the Oglethorpe Players at the Atlanta theater Friday night was made Tuesday by Lewis Hanse, dramatic director and coach. At the same time Mr. Hanse, who is manager of the Atlanta theater, stated that tickets for the performance will go on sale at the box office Thursday morning.

This will make the seventh successive year in which Oglethorpe Players presented a group of plays written and acted by its own undergraduate members, and Oglethorpe is said to be the only university in the south which writes and produces its own plays with only undergraduates participating.

The first of the three plays to be given Friday night is "The Star," a melodrama, by Charles Willis. Miss Maude Apfelbaum will be the leading lady; Fred Stewart will play the male lead, and others in the cast will be Shaffer Wimble, Charles Willis and Josephine Eichelberg.

The second play is "Maybe Later," written by Fred Stewart. There are five members of the cast, including Miss La Fon Dancy, leading lady; Elsie Prater, Florence Jewel and Zeddie Ivey. Bill Perkins has the only male role.

A comedy entitled "Florida Bound," written by Miss Mary Grady, will present Miss Grady herself in the principal role. Others in the cast include Miss Dixie McDaniel, Miss Fay Bowman, Shaffer Wimble, Calhoun Young and Bill Tye.

Despite the fact F. C. Nunn, manager of the A. & P. store at 736 Highland avenue, Monday night hid $145 in cash on shelves of the establishment, apparently some bold thief saw him for when he returned to work Tuesday the money was gone, police reported. Entrance was gained by breaking a lock on the back door.

About $30 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes were stolen from the grocery of C. J. McCoy, 76 Durant place, Monday night, according to police.

100 Travelers Protective Members Attend Convention

A motorcade of more than 40 automobiles and 100 delegates of the local Post B of the Travelers Protective association, will leave Atlanta at 1 o'clock today over the Newnan-Greenville highway for Columbus for the state convention Thursday and Friday.

Accompanying the delegates will be the women members of their families, most of whom are members of the ladies auxiliary of Post B, which was formed last September.

A round of entertainment has been provided for convention guests by Post C, at Columbus, and which includes a visit to Camp Benning where an immense demonstration of war machinery will be given for visitors.

Post B is particularly proud of its record, which will be presented in a report at the convention. Six members, E. D. McDonald, F. E. Kibler, C. C. Harrison, B. B. Baber, R. F. Pennington and John H. Owen have secured over 100 new members each besides a number of other members securing a lesser number. Those who secured over 100 are made members of the National Century club which meets every year at the national convention where they are presented with a medal and each succeeding year a new bar is added if they repeat the record.

Post B has succeeded in making its goal of 2,000 members by the convention date, having passed their quota of 1,775 three weeks ago, it is said.

Delegates will return to Atlanta Saturday.

$2,500 for Veterans.

A fund of $2,500 to assist in entertaining the national convention of Disabled Veterans of the World War was voted by council. The national convocation will be held here in June.

STATE WILL FIGHT W. & A. DECISION

Coincident with the announcement in Chattanooga that Judge Yarnell, in Hamilton county circuit court, had dismissed a writ of superseas obtained by the state of Georgia to prevent the opening of Broad street in that city through property owned by the state of Georgia, the Western and Atlantic commission, in session at the capitol Tuesday, adopted resolutions calling on the attorney general to fight the case to the limit and to carry it to the United States supreme court if necessary.

In his decision Judge Yarnell held that the state of Georgia, as owner of reversionary interest which he said would not come into being until the expiration of 4 years, had no reason to ask that the work be halted until a final adjudication of the state's right could be obtained. Under this decision work of opening the street is planned to begin next week, but the state of Georgia, through the resolution adopted Tuesday, will seek to prevent the beginning of the work.

The extension of Broad street will carry it through the heart of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad yards, the railroad having a lease on the property which expires in 1969. The railroad did not resist the condemnation proceedings.

Resolutions were adopted by the commission directing the state attorney general, George M. Napier, and other legal representatives associated in the case, to carry the fight through every available court before allowing the city of Chattanooga to "destroy or injure the state property without adequate compensation." It was decided that if a satisfactory settlement of the case is not secured in the state courts, it will be carried into the federal courts and to the United States supreme court, if necessary.

James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia public service commission, attended the meeting of the W. & A. commission Tuesday, occupying the place formerly filled by the late Paul B. Trammel. Under the law creating the W. & A. commission the chairman of the railroad commission is an ex-officio member. C. Murphy Candler is chairman of the W. & A. commission.

Five-Run Rally in Eighth Nets Oglethorpe Victory—Thad Buchanan Bests "Dog Face" Sheridan On Mound.

BY EMMETT SIZEMORE

Auburn, Ala., May 4.—(Special.)—The Stormy Petrels, of Oglethorpe university, stormed the Tigers' lair Tuesday afternoon and won the opening contest of a two-game series by an 8-to-7 score. An eighth-inning rally that netted five runs turned the trick.

"Auburn started the scoring in the second when Hitchcock completed the circuit without his team mates getting a hit. He was given free passage to the first stop, stole second and went to third while Akin was outstayed at first. Hitchcock then counted in a double steal.

The Oglethorpe lads took the lead in the third when Terrell hit a homer, scoring York, who had preceded him to first.

In the fourth frame the Tiger hitters staged a busy session, getting four hits and three runs. Wallis took the lead in the hitting spree, getting a single, he was followed with safe singles by Moulton, Akin and Hitchcock. Auburn counted again in the fifth, while Oglethorpe crossed the plate in the sixth. Both teams failed in the seventh.

Both halves of the eighth inning were featured by heavy scoring. The visitors, coming to the bat first in the eventful frame, garnered five hits for as many runs, giving them an 8-5 lead. The Auburn swatters tried hard, but fell short after they had found the Oglethorpe hurler for one hit and a pair of runs. It was a speedy double play in this inning that stopped Auburn swarms.

The Orange and Blue pilfered nine bases, with Stewart, Ellis, Hitchcock and Akin getting two each and James a lone stealer. The Oglethorpe runners failed to register a steal on the Auburn hurlers. Terrell, Oglethorpe lead-off man, got three hits and three runs. One of these bingles was a home run that accounted for two Petrel runs. York, Petrel pitcher, got a pair of safe ones, with one a two-bagger.

Wallis led the Auburn swatters with three safe ones in five trips, while Akin got two in four times up. The two teams will play their final game on the Auburn campus Wednesday afternoon. Hughes will probably pitch for Auburn and Hugh Buchanan, in all probability taking the mound for Oglethorpe.

WHEN THE TRAVELERS BEAT THE CRACKERS

Bert Niehoff, top, caught by the camera as he stepped into a fast one for a single in the fifth inning in the game with the Little Rock Travelers Tuesday afternoon at Spiller's park. Lower left, Joe Cantillon, manager of the Travelers, talking over the situation with the famous old Rube Robinson, the Crackers' jinx. The Crackers have been unable to beat Rube since he started hurling against them years ago. At the right is seen Tom Hughes warming up during the game. Tom was a star hurler on the Cracker staff some twenty years ago. Tom has been pitching around the country since his stay with the Crackers, but had to get back in the Southern league.

S. I. C. GOLFERS PLAY TOURNEY AT DRUID HILLS
Crack golfers of southern colleges and universities will play at the Druid Hills Golf club here Thursday in the initial matches of the southern conference golf tournament.

Individual and team matches will be played on the opening day. Finals will be staged Saturday. Conference teams entered include Georgia Tech. of Atlanta; the University of Georgia, of Athens; Vanderbilt, of Nashville; Sewanee, of Sewanee, Tenn.; and Alabama, of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

CAST ARRIVES FOR MIT SHOW ON THURSDAY
Arrival of Al Walker, the talkative manager of Lou Gugliemini, featherweight sensation, and Dave Edelman, who is modestly billed as "The South's Sensational Welterweight," will complete the cast for the Thursday night flusterfuff at the City Auditorium for the benefit of the disabled American veterans.

Lon Gugliemini will box Hollis Sullivan 10 rounds to a decision as the main event on a double-wind-up program. Dave Edelman will appear in the extra added feature, facing Larry Ayers, the solid Atlanta blonde, for 10 rounds or less.

Gugliemini logged the advance spotlight in the show by telegraphing a demand to Billy Lotz, matchmaker, that two judges be appointed to act with Referee Eddie Hanlon. Guggy was dissatisfied with the way the last mill he had with Sullivan turned out and imagined two judges would help matters. The Atlanta boxing commission yawned and named the extra judges for the chance to see Sullivan and Gugliemini in action once more, for memory of their last battle here still lingers as an interesting recollection. The two little fellows went to it hammer and tongs from bell to bell, Gugliemini weaving in and out, keeping Sullivan's face full of gloves; Sullivan pivoting and pumping his right hand at the bobbing target.

The last meeting of the two boys was a veritable trapezoid, with Sullivan the shooter and Gugliemini the clay pigeon. The only flaw in that metaphor is the fact that Gugliemini was not powdered; he was merely nicked and was sailing along smoothly at the finish.

Word from the Sullivan camp in Marietta, is that Sullivan will try to win by a knockout as early as possible. "Let Gugliemini himself referee if he wants to," Evans announced Tuesday. "We have every confidence that Referee Hanlon could render a fair decision, but we will win so decisively that even Lou will admit he is licked if he is wide awake enough to talk when Holly gets through with him."

To this brave talk, the Gugliemini followers point to Lou's extensive experience with top notch fighters and his thorough knowledge of Sullivan's style. There are just as many who predict Gugliemini will win the return match as favor Hollis.

Ayers and Edelman, the former a master boxer and the latter a rugged hard-hitting, two-handed fighter, will make an ideal match. The added number is expected to develop some real fighting. Irish Pat Corbett and Kid Karst are light heavyweights who always have fought furiously at even longer distances than the eight rounds they are carded to go.

A four-round preliminary will open the show. A new supply of tickets has been placed on sale at Chess' Place and the Piedmont Hatters, the first quota having been exhausted by the rush of confirmed ringsters who always insist on a seat close to the scene of combat.

Little Rock Takes Second of Series After Hard Fight

Atlanta Uses Two Pitchers in Vain Attempt To Defeat Cantillon's Tossers—Locals Stage Rally in Final Frame But Lose by One Run.

BY ROY E. WHITE

Ladies' day was observed at Spiller field Tuesday afternoon and proved to be none too inspiring an affair to Atlanta's debonair young ball players, and Little Rock, struggling along in the cellar position in the league standing, won by a 3-to-2 score.

Ruel Love, Cracker right-hander, was on the mound for the locals, and hurled a fair game until the latter stages, when only exceptionally good fielding kept him from being massacred. He finally was forced to give way to Bayne in the eighth inning.

Ray Caldwell, veteran hurler of the Travelers staff, was master of the situation, and had the Crackers eating dirt in the eighth and ninth part of the game. For three innings it was three up and three down, and only in the sixth and eighth innings did the Crackers secure more than one hit. Caldwell had a change of pace that puzzled the Crackers no little and a fast-breaking curve that kept the homelings popping up or hitting easy rollers to the infield.

Crackers Threaten.
A desperate ninth inning rally by the locals, one of the kind which has become a habit here, was stopped short when Clancy, Little Rock first baseman, speared a hot liner from the bat of Billy Bayne with two men on base and doubled Watson, recruit outfielder, who was signed just before the game, off first base to end the pastime.

Caldwell Too Good.
Atlanta's inability to solve the offerings of Caldwell tells practically the entire story of during the game. Atlanta secured the first safe hit off Caldwell in the fourth inning when Haas tripled. However, Caldwell forestalled out to Mayer and Niehaus was retired on a short fly. In the fifth inning, Manager Niehoff singled to right field after Smith had walked, but fast fielding on Little Rock's part prevented any serious damage.

Although he was hit in almost every inning, Love kept the hits well scattered except in the third and sixth. Little Rock was first to score and sent two markers across the plate in the third. Baker doubled, let one get past him. The final Traveler run came in the ninth, when Costello walked, went to second when Whaley stroked, and scored when Luebke could not find a ball that got away from him. Niehaus came in from first base and picked up the ball to throw Whaley out when he tried to reach third on the play.

Crackers Count in Sixth.
Atlanta's first run came in the sixth inning. Murphy led off with a single. Haas flied out. Good singled to right, sending Murphy to third, from where he scored on Niehaus' sacrifice fly to center field.

Two runs behind, Atlanta threatened to win the game in the final half of the ninth inning. Smith walked as a starter. Niehoff flied out. Brock batted for Luebke and singled to center, sending Smith to third. Watson hit a hot one to short that Baker fumbled long enough for Smith to score and Brock to reach second. With two men on base and only one out, Bayne cracked one towards right field with a "base hit" labeled on it. Clancy reached in the air, speared the hard-hit ball, and stepping first base, doubling Watson to end the game.

The final game of the series today probably will find the Crackers facing their ancient enemy, Rube Robinson, while Pur Carst in due to toss his southpaw slants past a few Traveler batters.

American Golfers For Invasion of England

Bob Jones Is Feted At Farewell Dinner By Links Luminaries

American Hopes for Victory in Great International Test Pinned Largely on Atlanta Star—Watts Gunn Also in Party.

By H. C. HAMILTON.
Sports Editor, The Constitution.

New York, May 4.—(Special.)—Bobby Jones, national amateur golf champion, was fêted when called on for a speech at the huge farewell dinner tendered members of the Walker cup team here tonight to do anything other than explain his silence, but British golfers, according to William C. Fownes, Jr., president of the U. S. G. A., will find him anything but bashful with a golf club.

Addresses at the banquet, held but a few hours before sailing time, revealed the fact that the Atlanta youngster is expected to bear the brunt of the task of again turning back the best that Britain has to offer in the realm of golf.

"We have five men who have played in England and are familiar with the conditions," said Mr. Fownes. "In addition there are men who can hold their own in any company. Those men are headed by Mr. Jones. They have an absolutely sound game and will play every one of them. They can stand the 'gaff'."

Toward the end of festivities, calls for Bobby Jones became so insistent that he was forced to speak. He explained his silence with two reasons. One was that the other Bobby, named Gardner, as captain of the Walker cup team, was the only member allowed to talk.

The other reason was that he saw Willie MacFarlane at one of the tables. That set the crowd after the Scotman, but will bow himself out of the banquet hall.

Watts Gunn, the other Atlanta representative on the team, who was runner-up to his pal Bob in the 1925 tournament, remained through it all the same unaffected youngster he was when he came through last year with a brand of golf that startled the sport world. According to his own statements, he cannot yet understand just why he has been given high honor or of having been picked as one of America's representatives in the play.

Dinner Success.

More than 500 golfers gathered tonight from all parts of the nation to give the Walker cup team the greatest send-off ever accorded any athletes on their departure for participation in international competition. From 6 o'clock until almost midnight, the corridors and ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, where the dinner was held, was thronged with masquerade and nibble wielders. About 100 of the party journeyed to the pier and remained until the Aquitania cast off its lines.

Members of the sailing party were understood by the news that the strike situation in England has forced the British authorities to postpone to British ladies' championship play indefinitely. They were not bothered by the fact that it is not certain that the Walker cup matches and the British amateur tournament will remain unaffected. They simply were in such a frame of mind that nothing could turn them back.

LOCALS RELEASE CLARKE; SIGN WATSON

Bill Watson, an infielder, formerly with Sacramento, of the Pacific Coast league, was signed by Manager Bert Niehoff, and inserted in the game Tuesday against Little Rock. He handled the only ball that came his way perfectly and was safe at first in the ninth inning when Baker, Traveler shortstop, fumbled his hard grounder.

A native Georgian from Dallas, Watson was a free agent when he signed an Atlanta contract Tuesday afternoon. He was formerly a student at Georgia university, but never played regularly on the baseball team.

Sumpter Clarke, an outfielder who has been with Atlanta since the spring training season began, was given his unconditional release to make room for Watson, according to the announcement which was made just previous to the game Tuesday.

Hoke Smith Out Of Pennant Race

O'Keefe Junior High romped to victory over the Hoke Smith ball tossers, 9 to 1, in a loosely played ball game and thereby eliminated the Smith outfit from the 1926 junior high pennant race.

Tucker, stellar little hurler for O'Keefe, had the opponents well in hand and only allowed the Smith batters three safe base knocks, while his teammates pounded on the Hoke Smith twirler for a total of 17 hits.

Lanier Wins Title In State Trap Shoot; Shoot Doubles Today

Augustan Breaks 193 Targets Out of 200 to Take Singles Title From Freeman—Mrs. W. P. Andrews Wins Women's Shoot.

Breaking 193 targets out of 200, W. H. Lanier, of Augusta, Tuesday won the singles championship of Georgia in the state trap shoot held at the Atlanta Gun club. Mrs. W. P. Andrews, of Atlanta, annexed the woman's title with a mark of 174.

In the men's singles, Lanier was hard pressed by J. H. and L. R. McDuffy and Dr. H. N. Alford, all of Atlanta, with H. D. Freeman, of the Georgia Gun club, finishing fourth. The McDuffys each scored 191, but in the shoot-off for second place J. H. McDuffy broke the tie by smashing 23 of the clay birds in 25 attempts. Dr. Alford scored 190 and Freeman 188.

Walter Huff, of Macon, the only Georgian entered in the professional shoot, won the event for this reason, although he was outscored by three shooters from outside the state. He broke 187 birds.

In the first half of the men's doubles, which were shot off Tuesday, C. C. Howard led with 41, while Mrs. J. O. Wright leads Mrs. Andrews by a single point in the uncompleted women's doubles. The other half of the doubles will be shot today.

Hentz Named President.

At a meeting following the day's shooting, it was voted to hold the state shoot here again next year, and $1,000 was voted to the Atlanta Gun club with which to purchase trophies for next year's event. Three hundred dollars also was voted to purchase a cup to be given the winner of the southern zone shoot, to be held here next month.

Harold F. Hentz, of Atlanta, was elected president of the state association for the ensuing year, while W. H. Letton was named vice president and J. H. Fuller secretary and treasurer. Dr. H. N. Alford, retiring president, will be presented with a beautiful cup in appreciation of his efforts during the past year.

The people who are afraid of the dentist are the people who do not consult him until they have toothache. Your dentist is more interested in protecting your teeth than he is in repairing them. Go to him regularly for examination and you will escape a lot of pain and trouble.

4 out of 5 is grim pyorrhea's count

DENTAL STATISTICS tell this grim story: four people out of every five are destined, through neglect, to contract pyorrhea after they pass the age of forty. Thousands younger also suffer.

Pyorrhea is the dread disease of the gums which is responsible often for loss of teeth, rheumatism, neuritis and other dangerous disorders.

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Pockets form below the teeth and poisons spread relentlessly through the body. If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., and contains his pyorrhea fluid which has been used by dentists the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea. If used regularly and used in time it will prevent pyorrhea or check its course. Don't give this insidious disease a chance to start. Start using Forhan's this very day. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

ISSUES OF RACE

The reorganized highway board. He also advocates logical rearrangement and coordination of functions of the department and "the speedy adoption of such other legislation and methods as would tend toward a more economical administration of the department and enable it to render more substantial service to the agricultural and business interests of Georgia.

Mr. Neill promises an active campaign and full exposition of his program in all his speeches. He closes his formal platform by saying: "The people of Georgia are confronted not by theory, but by reality. The ever-increasing and well-advertised prosperity of our sister states to the north and south, who have bravely solved modern problems, makes imperative that we meet the competition. Georgia must go forward or backward, she can no longer drift, nor lie at anchor. In which direction she is to move, this platform and the ballot box afford the people of the state the opportunity to determine."

Mr. Neill's platform follows: "One must be devoid of sentiment who does not consider the office of governor of his native state the greatest Georgia can bestow. But one man's personality can affect the destiny of the state. To place upon his shoulders the responsibility of the gubernatorial office, and unless he can offer them a broad, constructive program, reasonably certain of accomplishing what he has no right to ask their suffrage.

"Believing that I can assist our people in securing those advantages so essential to the sound economic growth and development of the state, I have, subject to the democratic primary to be held in September, made my announcement as a candidate for governor.

"In approaching our problems, we must not lose sight of certain elementary facts. Georgia is primarily an agricultural state. When her crops are poor, times are hard. When her farmers have money to spend, her banks pay dividends, trade is active, and all sections of the state prosper. Therefore, to retent her idle farms, to render productive thousands of yet undeveloped acres, to attract outside capital, to make rural life both prosperous and attractive, are the real tasks of those who would make Georgia great. By common consent, it is agreed that the two most potent factors necessary at this time to secure these ends, are a connected system of state paved highways and a program of educational expansion that will afford to every child in every section of Georgia equal opportunity.

Takes Definite Stand. "As it has always been my conviction that candidates should take a firm definite and open stand upon all live questions and issues without a hint of uncertainty or evasion, the following statement shows my position upon the most important questions, the solution of which is vital to the people of Georgia.

"In this statement, I have confined my expressions to those issues which are regarded as of paramount importance at this time.

Reorganization of Highway Department. "As governor, I would advocate a full and immediate reorganization of the state highway department.

"The system should be changed so as more effectively and definitely to limit the overhead and administrative expenses, leaving adequate provision for maintenance and emergency funds, and setting aside a special fund for paying next through tolls, which are unable to supply the money to match state and federal aid.

"The highway board should be reorganized so as to provide for one member of the board from each congressional district, thereby giving representation to every section of the state.

"Whether the state shall continue under the present plan of road construction or make certain the early securing of paved highways through the issuance of bonds will be determined by the vote of the people themselves; but under either plan, I favor this full reorganization of the highway system and board.

We must have, at the earliest possible date, a complete system of paved highways, built, owned and maintained by the state, paying no tolls and without additional taxation.

Read Bonds Favored. "The submission to the people for their ratification of a constitutional amendment providing for the completion of the construction, within the earliest period possible, of a complete system of paved highways traversing every county and every section of the state, and to refund to the counties, within a reasonable time, the amount advanced for them to the state for the construction of the state system of highways.

"This plan is feasible without discounting the portion of the gasoline tax now being used for the construction of the state, with any effort to deprive the counties of their part of such revenue.

"Georgia will never come into her own until she does full educational justice to her children.

"Successful governors have earnestly urged greater educational advantages for the youth of Georgia. Notwithstanding this, many country schools have been open, but a new month in the year has been added, and teachers promptly have been by-world, and thousands of boys and girls have been kept from the schools of their native state, and the residents of the rural districts have been deprived of the educational advantages that should have been furnished them at home.

Favors Educational Bonds. "I advocate the submission to the people for their ratification of a constitutional amendment providing for the completion of the construction, within the earliest period possible, of a complete system of paved highways traversing every county and every section of the state, and to refund to the counties, within a reasonable time, the amount advanced for them to the state for the construction of the state system of highways.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 5, 1925.

BUILDING PERMITS ARE AHEAD OF 1925

Atlanta building permits continued to register gains during the month ending April 30, topping the same month of 1924 by $31,723 and making the total for the year thus far to $9,319,426 compared with $4,686,193 for the same period in 1924.

The month of April in both years showed a marked decline in comparison with the first quarter of the year, but with several other large construction projects in the offing, the second quarter is expected to hold its own, according to predictions of A. O. McDaniel, assistant inspector of buildings. A fund of $2,000,000 for civic improvements will be available in July and work on these is expected to be pushed as soon as possible. This will add to the third quarter's total.

The month of February this year, with a total of $5,781,575 in permits exceeded those of the whole first four months of 1925, when the tabulation showed that only $4,686,193 was spent in construction work in the city.

A total of 377 permits were issued during the month of April of this year and homes for 234 new families will be available just as soon as the houses and apartments for which the permits have been issued are completed.

Atlanta also upheld her reputation of being a city of homes in the figures made public Tuesday. House permits made public Tuesday showed the total amount of $569,565 of the total amount of building permits. These included homes, apartments and duplex structures. Of the 230 families to be housed in the completed buildings, 113 will reside in individual homes.

Miners' Demands Should Be Met, Green Declares

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Great Britain's first general strike created an embarrassing subject for discussion in both official and labor circles of Washington today, but the only statement forthcoming was that of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in which he sympathized with the British coal miners and declared their demands should speedily be met.

Officials generally declined to speculate on the probable effects of the strike on American industry and commerce, in the belief that opinions in this country would not be wanted in England and probably would unduly agitate an apparently serious situation.

Announcement was made at the white house that President Coolidge sees no connection between the crisis in England with labor conditions in this country and that he does not believe the strike has progressed to the point where it might affect this country's commerce to an appreciable degree.

That conditions in the American coal industry were satisfactory was made known in a report to the president during the day by Secretary of Labor Davis, who based his information on a conference with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. Mr. Lewis, who is in Washington on what he described as routine matters, declined to comment today on the British strike.

While Secretary Hoover would not comment for publication on the situation, statistics in the commerce department furnished an idea as to the magnitude of trade which might be affected by a complete tie-up of commercial movements.

Figures on Trade. They showed the United States and the United Kingdom carried on almost $1,500,000,000 of trade last year, with this country's exports amounting to $1,031,876,748, and imports $412,315,858. Practically 50 per cent of British imports are made up of essential food stuffs.

Great Britain's trade with the world in 1925 totaled approximately $10,000,000,000, with imports aggregating about $6,300,000,000.

If the British strike continues for a considerable time, commercial experts believe the demand for American coal will increase in South America, where England has many coal customers.

Cordale, Ga., May 4.—(AP)—Bunse Napier, 36, white, today was resentence to die in the electric chair May 24 by Judge Crum in superior court here. Napier was convicted of attacking an 11-year-old Fitzgerald girl.

An appeal to the supreme court for a new trial failed and then came back to superior court for a new sentence.

clared that its passage was dictated by the effort of the nation as a whole to coerce the states of Florida, Alabama and a few others which had not seen fit to "tax the dead," as he termed it. "I am a democrat and always have been a democrat," he declared, "but when President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon declared that the inheritance tax was legalized robbery they schooled the sentiment of Florida and here and now declare that Coolidge and Mellon are good enough democrats for me. Furthermore, I look upon Coolidge the greatest of our administrative presidents and upon Secretary Mellon as the greatest secretary of the treasury we ever have had, not excepting Alexander Hamilton."

While certain local conditions have acted to retard business in some sections, the general view of present-day conditions in Florida, Alabama, as seen by E. B. Pharr, of Texarkana, and in the Carolinas, as viewed by H. J. Allison, of Charlotte, likewise selected optimism for the immediate future.

Stock Market Discussed. It was interesting to note that each of the speakers who dealt with the slump in securities felt that Wall Street fluctuations were dictated by speculation and not by any consideration of basic worth in the stocks.

involved. Concrete examples were given wherein, in face of actual growth and prosperity of the industry whose stock fell, sharp declines were registered in the market value of the security.

Eye hundred and forty-four delegates had registered up to 6 o'clock last night, according to announcement made by Mr. Lyons, who expressed belief that with other delegates known to be on the way, not less than 700 and probably more, would be in attendance.

Announcement of the amusement program for the week was made by W. A. Parker, Jr., of Atlanta, chairman of the entertainment committee. An informal automobile tour of Atlanta will be made this morning by the visiting women, starting at 10 o'clock, from the Baltimore. At 2:30 o'clock several large sightseeing buses will leave the Baltimore to carry the convention crowd to Stone Mountain.

Tonight at 8:30 o'clock there will be a concert by the choruses of Yarrab Temple, to be followed by a ball. Thursday at noon there will be a luncheon at the Woman's club for the visiting women and in the afternoon a card party and tea-dance. A theater party will take place in the evening.

Separate executive sessions will be held by each of the associations this morning, at which business pertaining to separate branches of the hardware industry will be discussed. The joint session will take place Thursday morning when an interesting program of addresses will be heard.

CAPTAIN CUTCHINS IS FOUND GUILTY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

San Antonio, Texas, May 4.—(AP)—Captain C. W. Cutchins, of the First Infantry, Second division, was found guilty of illegally possessing liquor by an army court-martial at Fort Sam Houston today. His punishment was set at 50 days reduction and six months' confinement to the post.

The trial was similar in several respects to the recent "cocktail" court-martial at San Diego marine base of Colonel A. S. Williams. Captain Cutchins' superior officer, Colonel John L. DeWitt, preferred charges against him. Records were introduced today by the defense to show that the captain had been ill at the time the liquor was found in his room and that subsequent to March 15, the date on which he was accused of being unfit for duty, he went to the hospital. His illness was influenza, the records showed.

EVOLUTION MEET QUITS AT CHARLOTTE

Charlotte, N. C., May 4.—(AP)—The state-wide mass meeting called by the "committee of one hundred" to battle evolution in North Carolina adjourned suddenly today after several hours stormy session.

Judge Walter H. Neal, of Laurinburg, chairman of the committee, declared the meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock, subject to the call of the president. Judge Neal was elected to that office a few minutes prior to this action.

Shortly before the gathering closed a number of those present apparently were ruffled over many of the opinions that had been expressed during the afternoon session and at one time bodily action was threatened.

This came when Rev. Walter West, of Lincolnton, declared that he resented E. D. Broadhurst's reference to "bitter-tongued" ministers who had spoken during the day.

Rev. West was halted, however, as he marched down the aisle toward the Greensboro man. Broadhurst continued his denunciation of many who had appeared and declared that "such conduct on the part of ministers is discouraging to a layman."

"The Bible does not need any help of the North Carolina legislature," Broadhurst declared.

Husband Says Wife Eats Too Much

At first she ate hardly anything because she had stomach trouble. After her husband, Mr. Noble, bought the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. known as Adierlin, her appetite became so good that Mr. Noble, in a joking way, says it keeps him jumping to buy food.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a light cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. sold under the name of Adierlin. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adierlin REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adierlin brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills and laxatives but let Adierlin care your stomach and bowels QUICKLY.

What Doctors Say. Dr. G. Eggers reports Adierlin is the best medicine he has used in 37 years. Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adierlin. Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adierlin.

Dr. I. Langlois prescribes Adierlin regularly with GOOD effect. Dr. J. E. Fickett writes: "After using Adierlin I feel better than for 20 years. AWFUL impurities were eliminated from my system."

Adierlin is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists.—(adv.)

HEADACHE LEAVES AND COMPLEXION IMPROVES

"Never in fifteen years have we been without Thedford's Black-Draught in our house," says Miss Susie Mershon, of Lancaster, Ky.

"Black-Draught is our regular family stand-by. A long while ago I was suffering with a spell of indigestion and I was real sick. I read in a paper how Black-Draught was good for such ailments, so I thought I would try it. In almost no time, it had me on my feet again."

"Since then, I have kept Black-Draught always on hand. For family use, I have found it has no equal. The children often need a mild laxative, and I always give them Black-Draught."

"Occasionally I have awful headaches—the blinding kind, which come across the front of my head and temples. This, I think, is a form of biliousness, and when I have one of these spells, I begin taking Black-Draught a pinch after meals, and in a short time I am well. The headache leaves me, and my color improves."

"My mother is 87 years old. I give her Black-Draught when she needs a mild remedy for constipation. Her health is generally very good, and about all she ever takes is Black-Draught. We would not be without it for anything, and always say a good word for it when we have an opportunity."

Thousands of others have written to tell how many disagreeable symptoms, due to constipation, have disappeared after they had taken Black-Draught. It is a natural remedy, composed of selected medicinal roots and herbs, and put up by modern, scientific, accurate methods.

The great popularity of Thedford's Black-Draught is itself an indication of the satisfaction it gives its millions of users.

INSTALLMENT LXIII.
AN AWAKENING.

As suddenly as the whirling mental mists had descended on Celia they lifted. . . She knew why very clearly now. Because she had been unworthy, ungrateful, rude, vulgar, spiteful. . . and for what reason? . . . Her mind clouded again. She could not think of any sufficient reason among all those that had seemed to her at the time so convincing. In her effort to remember something that would justify her conduct in her own eyes she sat erect, grasping the arms of the chair and looking about her.

The moon must have set, for now only a feather dusk filled the bare room. Its white curving walls and the dim gray of the window glass against the sky shone faintly luminous.

A new sensation of strangeness, verging on fear, stole over her. In this round, bare room filled with a ghostly pallor that was neither light nor darkness she felt as though in a hollow sphere floating through space—Isolated, cut off from everything and every one that she had known. . . Even from herself as she had known herself. Her identity seemed slipping from her. . . Who was she really? If she was this person now conscious in her, then she could not have been that other person of the day past, or the person before that one, and so back and back. . . Which was the real Celia, or was there any real Celia?

"I am Celia. . . I am Celia. . ." She said aloud to reassure her self, but the hollow sound of her voice in the bare room made her shiver, and discomfited her still more.

"Am I going crazy?" she thought, and her heart began to beat with quick, heavy strokes. She called upon her will, summoning it desperately in spoken words. "I cannot. . . I will not. . . and in this perately in broken words. "I cannot. . . I will not. . . and in this place." Again her voice sounded back to her from the bare walls, hollow and unreal.

She ran to the door and through it into the calm night. A sky bright with stars spread above her. From the meadow came the sweet, melancholy piping of the frogs. . . She wasn't afraid any longer, but a feeling of desolate sadness overwhelmed her, and with it came a throng of thoughts, no longer disconnected, but marching upon her like an ordered army, with bayonets fixed.

"Yes, I am Celia," stabbed her thoughts as they trampled over her. "Celia Gibbs. I signed that abominable letter truly—Celia Gibbs. I am the true daughter—base, odious, cruel, selfish. . . I am even worse than he was, for I am ungrateful. . . I am of much less account, for he had a great talent, and I have not even one little gift. . . He was horrible—but he wasn't ridiculous. . . I am ridiculous. . . All day long I have been doing one ridiculous thing after another. . ."

She went hot and cold, recalling how she had spent that day. Waves of blushes swept over her, as if unrolled before her like a scroll or rather like a comic movie in which she played the leading part. . . She had been alternately virago, fool, deserter. . . First she had deserted Hilary, then Padraic. . . And she stood there now, helpless to make amends to either, a figure of fun in her orange suit, which Padraic had plainly thought absurd, and with her hair cut "en page moyen age," which he must have thought even more absurd. . . for it was absurd, positively ludicrous, she knew that now. Then her egotism. . . her crass, cool, unblinking selfishness. . .

Shame scorched her as she recalled the note that she had left for Padraic. The callous disregard of him it showed. . . the light silliness of the words that were to wound him so deeply.

She was "very, very sorry. . . it was all her fault." As if those flippant phrases excused her! Nothing could excuse her. By now he was despising her as she deserved to be despised. . . She who had coaxed and bullied him into going off with her against his will, against his better judgment, of his better feeling. . . And Hilary, Hilary, who had been almost incredibly patient and long-suffering towards her. . . Even her treatment of Padraic was less despicable than had been her treatment of Hilary. . . She felt actually blistered with shame—as if shame were poured over her from head to foot like a scalding fluid. What had possessed her these past days? Had she been temporarily insane? Had the champagne she drank that night crazed her as well as intoxicated her? Was this unspeakable sense of self-abasement, this clear realization of her disgusting conduct, the result of recovered sanity? Or had she never been quite sane till now? . . .

Remembered words, a remembered voice completed her misery. . . "Celia! Where are you? Where is the dear, queer Celia that I knew?"

No not quite completed it; her remembered answer to those words did that: "Perhaps you didn't know that Celia any more than you know this one."

And all the while the only Celia was this present Celia. . . Celia Gibbs, whom no one had ever known till now. . . But she must think what to do. . . She must decide on some course of action. . .

She would have liked to pray if only she could believe even for one moment. Gazing up at the pure sky, her hands clenched against her throat, she muttered: "Some one. . . Something. . . Somewhere. . . help. . ."

The maple leaves sighed gently as if in sleep, were still, then sighed again. The piping of the frogs was a ceaseless overture to the softer noises of the night. "Celia Gibbs. . . Celia Gibbs. . . Celia Gibbs. . ." they were piping now.

She waited for some moments, staring up at the stars, as if expecting an answer—waited vainly as many another has done before her and will after her, for the voice of the silence rarely answers at the time of invocation.

"I must think for myself. . . that is the only answer. . . I will think for myself. . ."

The station master, dozing in his chair for a few moments, was roused by a touch on his shoulder and a voice saying: "Will you please give me a ticket for the 10:30 train to New York?" He really thought her a part of his dream at first. Then knew he was awake, and jumped to his feet, but still stared incredulously.

"You've only five minutes," urged Celia.

"The Havelock Smiths must have turned her out," the station master was thinking. Aloud he said: "All right, miss. Pullman or day coach?"

"Day coach, please," said Celia.

"Near as the bark on a tree," thought the station master again. (Copyright, 1936, for The Constitution.)

Facts about Atlanta

Mayor Walter A. Sims has approved the largest appropriation for parks and playgrounds ever before expended in Atlanta. In doing so he says:

"Our people are working with great diligence in their respective fields of service. They need to stop now and then and turn aside for moments of relaxation—for hours spent in our beautiful parks. I believe it is a wise investment for the city to provide every reasonable form of amusement and to encourage our people to live more in the open and to engage in some type of play."

Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, of the Atlanta Public Schools, is a great believer in the value of outdoor play. He says:

"Every time you get a boy or a girl or an adult to go into some definite form of outdoor recreation you have helped to make better citizens. I do not care whether it is playing tennis, swimming, track, baseball, polo, or what not, just so they get out in the open and learn the art of play. It is one of the great discoveries which so many people go through life without making."

Mell R. Wilkinson, president of the Presidents' Club, says:

"I am glad to see Atlanta going in more and more for outdoor recreation. I think it is essential to any great city's best life and development. The lad growing up in the country gets his exercise without knowing it and he develops a strong body and a happy disposition as a result of his intimate contact with Nature, but here in the city we need to remember that many of our boys and girls would not have this chance at outdoor games and the joy of swimming and boating and fishing if the city did not provide it for them."

Mrs. Samuel Inman, one of Atlanta's leading citizens and always a friend of every forward movement, says:

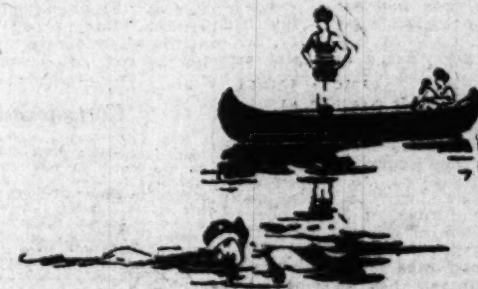

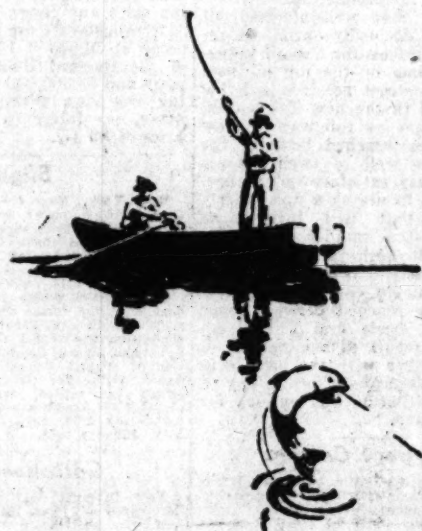

"One of the happiest sights in our city is the daily rush for the parks and playgrounds where the children have their chance at any form of games they may wish and where they play by the hour till they fill their little bodies with sunshine and fresh air and return to their homes for wholesome food and plenty of sleep. Atlanta is wise to provide these forms of recreation."

GOLF · SWIMMING · FISHING · TENNIS ·

ATLANTA believes that a basic factor in the upbuilding of a city is ample provision for recreation for every citizen. The element of play enters more definitely into the character of a people than we have sometimes been willing to think. Everyone really needs some form of play, some intimate touch with recreative processes which appeal to the particular disposition. In the last analysis it comes to be a question of contentment—the requisite to good citizenship and to effective citizenship. People must be content if they are to do their best work and they must have recreation if they are to be content. Cervantes once said:

"He that can take his pleasure can be content"

Atlanta has looked well into the recreational needs of her citizenry. There are today twenty odd public parks in Atlanta where every sort of recreation is provided. In Piedmont Park, Grant Park, Lakewood Park and the other larger parks may be found any afternoon hundreds of people—older ones as well as the youngsters—engaged in every sort of game you ever heard of from golf to marbles. The third municipal golf course has just been opened. This latest public golf course, Candler Park Links, is the gift of that generous citizen, Mr. Asa Candler, Sr. The Piedmont Links and the Stockade Links and the new Candler Links provide all the golf privileges now necessary for this rapidly-growing city. It is estimated 5,000 persons play golf on the public links in Atlanta every week.

Swimming is another feature sport in Atlanta's play program. The lakes at Piedmont, Grant Park, Lakewood, and the many private lakes and pools of the city, are always crowded with eager lovers of the water. The 1926 season opens May 15, and already it is estimated that on the opening day there will be 25,000 people in the various swimming places. It is a healthful form of play and one which makes for contentment.

Fishing! There's a word to stir the deepest emotions, isn't it? And Atlanta has not been unmindful of the Izaak Waltons. It is a common thing to see people by the dozens sitting beneath the shady trees that border Piedmont and Grant Park and Lakewood, watching for the cork to bobble. And for better ground the anglers have only to go to Bull Sluice, or Burton, or any of the other famous fishing places near the city.

Boating, polo, baseball, tennis, hockey, croquet, and many other delightful outdoor sports are featured in the recreational program which Atlanta's beautiful parks and playgrounds so amply provide. More money will be spent this season by the city in serving the recreational needs of the people than any previous year. And Atlanta is glad to spend this money for the sake of a contented citizenship.

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The unsettling influence of the British labor troubles was reflected in comparative small business in the cotton market today. There was some selling on better weather news and liquidation of near months promoted by the circulation of a few additional May notices. Offerings were absorbed on comparatively small declines, however, and after selling off from 18.21 to 18.10, July rallied and closed at 18.15. The general market closed steady; net 4 points lower to 6 points higher.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 3 points and sold about 3 to 7 points net lower in early trading under liquidation, with local and southern selling promoted by the weakness of Liverpool and the better showing of the early weather map. Rallies followed on covering, but only a few points before meeting renewed liquidation.

The market reacted the lowest levels of the day during mid-afternoon. May sold off to 18.54 under liquidation, a net decline of 12 points, but sellers of May seemed to be buying December, giving new crop positions a relatively steady tone in spite of better weather news. October declined to 17.18 and December to 16.90, a net decline of only 2 points on the latter. The general market stiffened up in late trading on private reports of rains in the southwest.

Selling on the afternoon decline probably was promoted by the failure of reports reaching here from London to hold out any definite prospect for a quick settlement of the British labor troubles, but there seemed a more hopeful view of the outlook in late trading, probably encouraged by the action of the stock market. Closing prices showed rallies of 6 or 8 points from the lowest.

Liverpool was a buyer here during the morning. Private cables said the Liverpool market had been influenced by local and continental selling and that Manchester business was almost at a standstill. Exports today, 10,750, making 7,116,199 so far this season. Port receipts, 19,911. United States port stocks, 971,412.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.
New York, May 4.—(AP)—Cotton, spot, quiet; middling, 18.85.

MARKET NARROW AT NEW ORLEANS.

The cotton market was only moderately active today and price fluctuations were narrow. The British labor troubles were the depressing influence and responsible for such decline as occurred. The market was more or less supported by map indications of bad weather in the near future. This led to occasional rallies.

Following an early gain of 3 points the market gradually eased off under selling induced by the British strike until at the lowest of the afternoon prices showed losses from the early highs of 9 to 12 points. There was a moderate rally in the last hour but prices eased off again at the end on realizing.

The close showed a net gain for the day of 3 points on May but net losses of 1 to 7 points on the other active months.

At the start as Liverpool was only a shade lower than due the market was steady, first trades showing net losses of 2 to 3 points on old crop months and net gains of 1 to 2 points on new crop positions. Prices rallied slightly in the first hour but soon eased off again to levels 5 to 6 points under the early highs. Prices later in the morning rallied to 16.05 for October and 16.00 for December, or 5 to 6 points above the previous close. These were the day's highs.

Prices eased off again in the afternoon and made new lows at 17.41 for July, 16.55 for October and 16.57 for December, or 9 to 12 points below the highs but rallied a little in the late trading. The close was near the lows.

Exports for the day totaled 10,570 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, May 4.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed quiet at unchanged quotations. Sales 1,063. Low middling, 14.28; middling, 17.89; good middling, 18.54. Receipts, 8,279. Stock, 312,742.

Cottonseed Oil.

New York, May 4.—After starting steady today, cottonseed oil sold off 6 to 10 points on the slump in hard grain, but the tightness in May again asserted itself and efforts to cover effected a recovery. October closed 3 points lower and the balance 2 to 4 higher. Sales 8,000 barrels. Prime grade, 11.75-12.00; prime summer yellow, 12.25; May closed 12.15; July 12.85; September 12.58; October 13.50.

of old Sparta in him that kept him there smiling as he sold his flowers every day without once saying a word of the disease of which he died.

He had no family here. A relative in New York city has been communicated with and is en route to Atlanta for the funeral.

The secretary of the local Greek community stated Tuesday night that his friends will be particular to see that the most beautiful flowers available are placed on Pete Farnax's grave.

The Day in Finance

New York, May 4.—Some liquidation is still going on in the stock market as a result of the situation now existing in England. However, most of the price declines in our stock market since the opening yesterday have been due to short selling. The importance of this, in view of the very serious situation now existing in England, which in many ways directly and indirectly affects us, is that our stock market appears to have been liquidated.

In the best banking circles here in close touch with London the opinion prevails that the general election can be held, almost anything might happen; that in the end law, order and government from the conservative British viewpoint will prevail; that such an outcome will be the most constructive news that has come out of England in many a long day.

The high level of the middle of last February when daily a new high record of all time was being made and when bank loans secured by stock exchange collateral were at the high for all time. If this week's news from London had come on top of stock prices and bank loans at the high level of the middle of last February something would now be doing in our stock market, the net result of which would be due to the limited time he will be here.

Thinking Wall Street is also thankful for the make-up of the average British citizen, laboring man as well as capitalist. One Liverpool and other points where there is a larger element of red organized labor are being closely watched by bankers here.

However, it is realized that the market of the average British citizen, does not readily lend itself to creating labor dispute situations such as have recently been witnessed in the Pacific, N. J. textile mill strike.

Shrewd stock market traders as a rule do not sell stocks short on strike news, for the simple reason that a settlement might come suddenly and leave the seller of short stock far out on a swivel limb with nothing to do but drop to the ground.

Some of the smaller traders here are not taking any stand in the market now one way or the other, preferring to keep their hat out of the ring until three signs appear.

One sign would be evidence that the stock market was dragging on the bottom by refusing to go lower despite unfavorable news.

Another sign would be the time for action had come would be news indicating that the end of the strike was near. The sign would be buying of a general strike were withdrawn London connections on inside information that the end of the strike is near.

There is no doubt but that powerful bankers here in Wall street with important plans were trying to reconstruct favorable stock market sentiment when the unexpected general strike was called in England. There is no doubt but that these bankers are now standing on the sidelines doing nothing until the situation in England clears or shows signs of clearing.

Lockout Notices.

In today's London news cables it is reported that Mr. Thomas had just asked Premier Baldwin whether Mr. Churchill's speech meant that if the notices of a general strike were withdrawn the government would procure withdrawal of the mine owners' lockout notices. The best bankers here in Wall street were trying today to find out just what lockout notices were posted by the mine owners, this point being considered by our bankers important in understanding the situation in England. The miners who could be learned today it appears that the existing situation was brought to a

REACTIONARY TONE IN BOND MARKET

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Reactionary price movements today continued to express the bond market's reaction to the general strike in Great Britain. Despite the return of easier money conditions, support was withdrawn from all classes of bonds and a general drift to lower levels took place. The pronounced weakness of French and Belgian currencies, which dropped to record low levels, coupled with the strike developments, contributed to the unsettledness of foreign obligations. United Kingdom 5 1/2% of 1937 receded fractionally to the lowest point of the year and losses of 1 to 2 points were common among French, Belgian, Swiss and Polish issues. Some of the selling was ascribed to fears that prolongation of the British labor troubles would interfere with plans for extending international stabilization credits to the continental country.

Mexican bonds were the only strong features of the foreign list, several advancing to the best prices of the year.

Quiet and orderly liquidation of domestic issues caused moderate recedes in representative railroad and industrial issues, although the improvement in the stock market later brought about partial recoveries. The general disposition was to withhold orders pending more definite news regarding the extent and effects of the industrial tie-up in England.

Selling activities in the railroad group were confined mainly to speculative bonds indicating that liquidation of foreign investment holdings was being extended. Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget sound 4s, Canadian Pacific 4s, Erie convertible 4s, "A" Illinois Central 3s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s and Norfolk Southern refunding 6s were heavy.

International Mercantile Marine 6s were driven down more than 2 points by a 60-cent fall in the stock price, adversely affecting the company's business as well as hinder pending negotiations for the sale of White Star Line but a part of this loss was regained. Skelly and Sinclair Oil issues overcame the pressure of realizing sales and closed slightly higher.

Arrangements for new financing included $3,500,000 6 1/2% cent bonds of the General Public Utilities company and $3,300,000 of Standard Milling company four-year 5 per cent 2 1/2% the latter to be offered at a price of 90 1/2.

Sugar.

New York, May 4.—A decline of 1.32c featured raw sugar today with increased offerings of nearby supplies. Sales included 15,000 bags of Porto Rican for first half May shipment, 50,000 bags of Cuban in port, and 10,000 bags for immediate shipment. Cuba closed at 4.34 delivered.

The general strike in the United Kingdom and the lower spot market explained a 60-cent fall in futures, completely overshadowing the report that the president of Cuba will restrict production of sugar. Prices broke 3 to 5 points under selling for Cuban and European sugar. Futures closed 11 to 15 cents lower, and 2 to 5 points net lower. May closed 24 1/2; July 25 1/2; September 26 1/2; December 27 1/2; January 27 1/2.

Cottonseed Oil.

New Orleans, May 4.—The market for cottonseed oil was rather quiet today in sympathy with some weakness in hard grain. Trading was light although it was claimed that there were good orders just under the market. Prime summer yellow oil closed at 12.60, or 30 points up. Prime crude was unchanged at 11.75. Futures closed steady; May 12.35; July 12.32; August 12.32; September 11.74; October 10.80.

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, May 4.—Cotton spot, prices steady. American, strictly good, middling, 10.80; good middling, 9.85; strictly low middling, 9.15; low middling, 8.85; good ordinary, 7.25; good ordinary, 6.50.

Sales 2,000 bales, including 1,000 American; receipts 12,000 bales, including 8,100 American.

Futures closed steady; May, 9.32; July, 9.19; October, 8.95; December, 8.85; January, 8.88; March, 8.88.

Stock Market Advances When Bear Attempt Fails

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Speculators for the decline faded today in their effort to bring about another unsettlement in stock prices as a result of the general strike in Great Britain. Prices were carried down 1 to 3 points in the first outbreak of selling, but the reaction did not bring out any appreciable volume of forced or urgent liquidation and prices rallied briskly during the afternoon.

Closing quotations were generally higher, a long list of active issues showing net gains of 1 to 6 points on the day. Total sales were 1,067,800 shares, as compared with 1,568,700 yesterday.

Wheat prices were the hardest hit by the strike news, breaking 2 1/2 to nearly 4 1/2 a bushel, and then rallying slightly. May wheat closed at 1.56 1/2, a bushel after having sold down to 1.56 1/2. Cotton held relatively steady.

Foreign exchanges were heavy, although sterling was strongly supported by buying reported to be for the account of the British government. French francs and Belgian francs touched new record low levels at 3.22 and 3.20 cents, respectively.

The calmness with which the London market accepted the strike news, the continuation of easy money rates and the constructive nature of most of the day's domestic business and earnings reports from Belgium, France and Germany in the market. There seemed to be a rather general opinion in financial circles that the strike would be of short duration and that any adverse effect on our business would be compensated by increased business in other countries, particularly those where British competition is a serious factor.

Standard industrials and rails took a prominent part in the afternoon rally. United States Steel common stock advanced 1/2 point to 31 1/2, after having sold down to 31 1/2 during the morning. General Electric advanced 1/2 point to 21 1/2, closing at 31 1/2 for net gains of 2 1/2. American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, Davison Chemical, Famous Players, Montgomery Ward, Postum Cereal, Pullman, Radio Corporation, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Ward Baking "B," White Motors and Woolworth were among the stocks that were 1 to nearly 3 points higher. Sloss-Sheffield Steel was run up 6 points to 118 on buying influenced by reports of special developments favorable to stockholders. Du Pont jumped over 4 points to 215.

Oil was in steady demand as a result of recent constructive trade developments. These included the publication of statistics showing an increase of 25 per cent in the consumption of gasoline in March, predicting that the net earnings of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey would exceed $100,000,000 and the announcement that gasoline stocks on April 1 represented only 72 days' supply against 81 on that date last year. Atlantic Refining rallied 3 points to 119 1/2 and Colorado Fuel, General Asphalt, Mid-Continent and Panhandle Producers all advanced a point or two.

High grade rails, large blocks of which are held abroad, were heavy during the morning, but rallied with the rest of the list during the afternoon. Atlantic Coast Line advanced 2 1/2 points to 190 and Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Pere Marquette and some of the lower priced issues such as 18 St. Paul preferred and Western Pacific

1,500 Greeks Here Mourn Pete, "The Flower Man"

Hundreds of Atlanta Greeks will attend funeral services for Pete Farnax, "the flower man," at the Greek Orthodox church, corner of Garnett street and Central avenue, Thursday, interment to take place in the Greek lot at Greenwood cemetery. Of the fifteen hundred members of the Greek colony here, every one knew Pete Farnax, whose obituary was published in The Constitution Monday morning.

Thousands of persons in Atlanta who perhaps never knew him as Pete Farnax did know him as "the flower man" in front of the Connally building. In the lobby there he stood practically every day for at least ten years, surrounded by his lovely roses, tulips, carnations, daffodils, violets, pink, ferns, asters and a score of other blooms in season.

Some of his flowers were ordered from other parts of the world. As a gardener and florist in New York and Philadelphia, he had learned to cultivate them, and it was said by his friends that although he could have earned many times as much money in other kinds of work he always remained a vendor of flowers because he loved them.

There is no telling how many dinner parties in Atlanta society and how many times he was the guest of honor at the homes of the city's elite. It was nothing unusual to see, during the rush hours in the afternoon, a handsome limousine drive up to the Connally building, a prominent business man or his wife step out and buy huge arms full of flowers from Pete for a party that evening. His friends among the Greeks here said that last Easter Pete presented a particularly gorgeous display of lilies in his pots, boxes and baskets at the entrance to the Connally building. He was immensely proud of them. By nightfall every lily had been sold.

A few years ago a complaint was lodged against the location of Pete's stand in the entrance of the building. The town was growing, crowds were increasing and one or two occupants of the building felt that Pete was in the way. The Connally family, however, would listen to no protest against Pete, for "the flower man" had been a friend of Joseph Brown Connally, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Connally, who died as a result of police gas and exhaustion in service abroad with the 82d division during the world war. Every Memorial day and on every birthday of Joe Brown Connally since the war, Pete Farnax placed flowers on Captain Connally's grave. Thomas Whipple Connally, only surviving son of Dr. and Mrs. Connally, told Pete Farnax that he could keep his stand in front of the Connally building as long as he lived. And he did. Last week his flowers bloomed fresh, fragrant and bright.

There is some doubt as to what disease it was that caused Pete's death. Physicians are not certain whether it was heart disease or paralysis. He was 55 years of age. Customers at times saw him when he seemed sick, but he never winced or complained of any illness. He was a native of Sparta, Greece. Perhaps it was the blood of old Sparta in him that kept him there smiling as he sold his flowers every day without once saying a word of the disease of which he died.

He had no family here. A relative in New York city has been communicated with and is en route to Atlanta for the funeral.

The secretary of the local Greek community stated Tuesday night that his friends will be particular to see that the most beautiful flowers available are placed on Pete Farnax's grave.
